Expect Action On Coal Walkout

VANCOUVER (CP)—Commenting on a walkout of Vancouver Island coal miners today, F. E. Harrison, western representative of the Federal Department of Labor, said the miners have "a signed agreement with the mine operators for the duration of the war."

"It was made under the aegis of the Dominion government," he said. "I understand that notwithstanding this agreement the men have stopped work. That's all I know about the matter at present. I suppose our department will have to act, but I don't know at present what form of action it will take."

Otherwise his statement will await reassembly of the House of Commons, it is understood.

PREMIER GOING TO EDMONTON

Premier John Hart was on his way to Edmonton today, traveling over Canadian National Railway lines. He left Sunday accompanied by Arthur Dixon, British Columbia chief engineer; F. C. Green, British Columbia surveyor-general, and D. O. Lewis, assistant chief engineer of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway. The trip to Edmonton was undertaken following announcement last week the premier would head a group of provincial leaders conducting Seattle business on a tour of the P.G.E., starting Tuesday. Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands and Municipalities, will take the P.G.E. trip.

1,500 Men Leave Mines at Nanaimo And Cumberland

NANAIMO (CP)—Fifteen hundred miners employed in Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd. Mines here and at Cumberland were idle today in what the operators described as an illegal strike and the men a holiday.

The unions have been seeking a revision of the wage scale set out in the agreement between the operators and the United Mine Workers of America, District 18.

The mines affected produce 3,000 tons of coal per day. Members of the Nanaimo local of the union decided at a special meeting Sunday to leave their jobs and later the operators were notified that the Cumberland local had followed suit and would hold a meeting today to ratify their executive's decision.

A total of 592 men are employed in Nanaimo and district workings and 747 at Cumberland. With maintenance staffs and other employees an estimated 1,500 men are involved.

Operators said the mines were being maintained on a basis for immediate operation.

Top wage for a miner now is $5.30 a day with 61 cents cost-of-living bonus. Officials of the company declared the suspension of work "an illegal strike" and said that Canadian Collieries had made numerous concessions to the miners to keep the mines in production. They said any interruption of production at present would have serious consequences to the company, because bunkering must be maintained at Union Bay and contracts with the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian National Railways fulfilled.

They said curtailment of production would also have a serious effect on the domestic market.

A statement by the Nanaimo local of the United Mine Workers of America said that every effort had been made to secure a peaceful settlement. The subject was taken up at a conference Aug. 7 and 8, with a view to having the company join with the unions in an application to the National War Labor Board. It said the company had taken the position that the fuel administration had regulated the price of coal and that permission to increase wages was unlikely.

The statement said the miners objected to being unable to get permission to work at other occupations in defence projects paying about 35 per cent more than somewhat similar occupations in the mines, without the danger.

To Divert Alberta Coal To Cover B.C. Shortage

OTTAWA—As a result of the reports from the coast about nervousness over the fuel situation and delays in delivery, Ottawa is moving to head off the alleged prospective coal shortage.

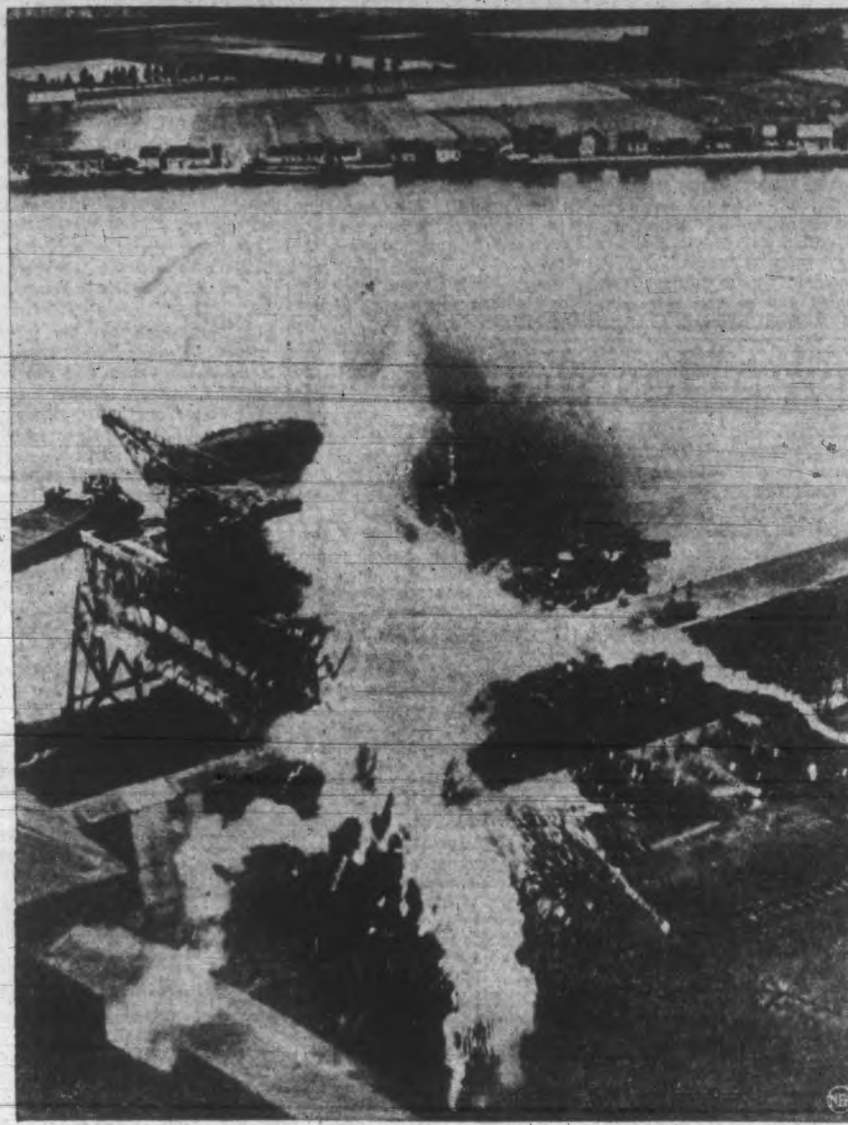

Ross M. Brown of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced today that action has been taken to divert Alberta coal to British Columbia to cover the shortage.

Coal Deliveries Expected

Peter Cunningham, manager Kinsman-Gillespie Coal Co. Ltd., today issued the following with regard to the alleged coal situation here:

"The articles appearing in your issues of Friday and Saturday are so misleading and so inaccurate I am obliged to ask you to make an immediate correction of your statements. First, I wish to say that the inference taken by many people that I was the source of your information for the Friday story, is not correct. I knew nothing whatever of the Friday story until after its publication. I told everyone who inquired, including Mr. K. Drury, editor of the Times, when he called on me on Saturday, that it was without foundation in fact. The Saturday article is incorrect in nearly every important fact it contains. The letter referred to was not made public and did not say that the output of Comox mines had been taken for the entire month of August. The date given was Aug. 15, which is now past. The letter was produced only to show that future deliveries were to be expected immediately from Comox. The letter

Against Japs in Pacific

'Greatest Victory Yet' Expected

LONDON (CP)—Selwyn Speight, the London Star's correspondent in Sydney, Australia, said today that despite the cautious tone of United Nations' communiques "it seems clear the Allies have already won in land, sea and air operations in the Solomons the greatest victory yet achieved against the Japanese."

Attributing Washington reluctance to give details on the Solomons action to security reasons, Speight said it was "reasonable to assume" that the U.S. marines have achieved their major initial objectives.

"This has apparently been done by seizing control of Tulagi harbor and of the big air base on Guadal Canal Island which was nearly ready for use by the Japanese when it was taken," he said.

When American and Australian fighting planes are able to operate from that field in substantial numbers the Japanese will have lost all chance of driving them from the island, he asserted.

"That stage may be very near," he added.

CEASELESS VIGIL

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA (CP)—Allied airmen maintained ceaseless vigil over the waters northeast of Australia to prevent Japanese reinforcements from reaching the Solomon Islands as the battle for control of vital bases there entered its 11th day today.

While United States marines were believed to be extending bridgeheads already won in hard fighting in the Solomons, actual developments in that theatre were hidden by official silence both here and in Washington. No reference to the situation was contained in the daily communiques from Allied headquarters, which was devoted to a brief report of a new Allied bombing attack on Japanese-occupied Timor and to continued patrol skirmishes in the Kokoda area of southeastern New Guinea, 60 miles from the Allied base at Port Moresby.

The Melbourne Herald reported that Allied troops still are operating in the interior of Timor, and speculated that the almost daily Allied bombing attacks were intended partly to assist them.

An Allied spokesman said the land skirmishes in the Kokoda area of New Guinea were "not of particular importance," though the Japanese were reported to have been reinforced there of late.

Rescues Injured Crew Men From Flaming Plane

Sgt. Pierre Cecil Bion, son of Madame Paul Bion of North End Rd., Ganges, Salt Spring Island, and the late Capt. Bion, has been awarded the British Empire Medal for bravery in pulling fellow crew members of a crashed bomber away from their burning craft, R.C.A.F. headquarters at Ottawa were advised today from London.

Sgt. Bion was born at Ganges in 1913. His parents went there 32 years ago. Shortly after the outbreak of this war Sgt. Bion joined the Canadian Scottish Regiment but the air force proved a better attraction and he obtained a transfer. He went to England 13 months ago.

"I think it's wonderful," said Madame Bion when advised of her son's decoration.

The incident occurred last May. Sgt. Bion was air gunner of an aircraft which was recalled to its base because of bad weather. In trying to land the pilot crashed his plane into high trees on a hillside and it burst into flames.

"Sgt. Bion managed to extricate himself and assisted the wireless operator who, while in a very dazed condition, was endeavoring to get free," said the official citation. "Having taken him to safety, Sgt. Bion returned to the burning aircraft and, with the assistance of the navigator, extricated another member of the crew who had been trapped in the second pilot's seat.

"Leaving the navigator to attend to this (crew) member, Sgt. Bion returned to the aircraft and, unaided, extricated the pilot who was suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg and was unable to move, and carried him to a place of safety. Unfortunately the pilot died a few hours later.

"Sgt. Bion, who had sustained lacerations, abrasions and an injury to his left knee, displayed presence of mind and complete disregard for his own safety while performing his gallant rescue work."

MAY RATION MEAT

CHICAGO (AP)—The United States may have to ration meat, Roy F. Hendrickson, administrator of the agricultural marketing administration, told retail meat dealers today.

"We need some system," Hendrickson said, "perhaps rationing, meatless days, a combination of the two or something else to assure equitable distribution of what will be a short supply of meat."

Hendrickson said "the current shortage of meat is only a forerunner of things to come — and the sooner that is realized, the better."

War Decisions Reached, Kremlin State Dinner

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill has concluded a four-day trip to Moscow in which he and Premier Josef Stalin reached secret decisions in conjunction with United States generals and statesmen on stopping and defeating the Germans, it was disclosed officially today.

American pilots flew the Prime Minister and his Anglo-American party of 20 to Moscow in three big Consolidated Liberators (B-24) bombers. They arrived on the afternoon of Aug. 12 and departed Sunday morning.

Communiques issued here and in London this afternoon, following Mr. Churchill's departure from Soviet soil, said the conferences had resulted in a number of decisions on the conduct of the war and that the existing understandings between Russia, Great Britain and the United States had been reaffirmed in an atmosphere of cordiality and complete sincerity.

A source close to the Prime Minister, when asked what the conferences were about, replied: "Any child in the street should know the answer to that."

The fact that Britain, Russia and the United States were in agreement on the urgency of establishing a second front in Europe this year was announced this spring following Soviet Commissar Molotov's trips to London and Washington.

6 Americans In Party of 20

Twenty persons—including six Americans—were in the Churchill party on this first journey by a British Prime Minister to the Soviet Union.

They included Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander-in-chief in India, and Maj.-Gen. Russell Maxwell, United States commander in the Middle East.

The communique, after listing the participants in the conferences, thus summed up the results:

"A number of decisions were reached covering the field of the war against Hitlerite Germany and associates in Europe. This just war of liberation both governments are determined to carry on with all their power and energy until complete destruction of Hitlerism and any similar tyranny has been achieved."

"The discussions, which were carried on in an atmosphere of cordiality and complete sincerity, provided an opportunity of reaffirming the existence of close friendship and understanding between the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States of America in entire accordance with the Allied relationships existing between them."

The Prime Minister, flying with W. Averill Harriman, President Roosevelt's personal envoy, was met at the airport by Molotov and Russian military dignitaries.

On Wednesday evening, the day of his arrival, Mr. Churchill went to the Kremlin and saw Stalin immediately.

They talked for three hours and 40 minutes.

Again on Thursday night they had three long talks.

British generals attended the Stalin-Churchill conversations, while Gen. Maxwell and Brig.-Gen. S. P. Spalding, charged with Russian lease-lend affairs in Washington, conferred with Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, commander of the Red Armies in reserve.

Russian Fighters Escort Bombers

Circumstances of the meetings were fairly secret, but newspapermen got their first inkling of them when they saw three Liberators soaring over Moscow, escorted by a number of Russian fighter planes.

Mr. Churchill's plane was piloted by two American members of the British ferry command—William Vanderkloot, 28, of Sarasota, Fla., and Jack Ruggles, 27, the co-pilot, San Francisco, Calif. Among the British conferees were Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the Imperial general staff, who flew with Mr. Churchill to the United States in the spring, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, commander-in-chief of the R.A.F. in the Middle East.

Also, Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Mr. Churchill's physician, Sir Charles Wilson.

Roy Henderson, assistant chief of European affairs in the state department, was in the American group.

The visit was climaxed with a state dinner at the Kremlin on Friday night. Persons who attended it said both the Prime Minister and Stalin were in the highest spirits.

Premier Stalin told several jokes at the dinner.

Informants said that at least 25 different toasts—one of them to President Roosevelt—must have been drunk and that the dinner consisted of 26 courses.

The banquet was termed a gay affair which lasted beyond midnight Friday.

One description was that it was "full of fun and very jocular."

One source close to Mr. Churchill called the meeting "an epoch."

Before alighting from the plane, Mr. Churchill looked down on Moscow and commented on his first impression that "the houses from the top look very thin."

As the Prime Minister and Mr. Harriman stepped into the warm sunshine a Russian band played the British and United States national anthems.

Mr. Churchill and Mr. Harriman were greeted warmly by Molotov. Both spoke briefly into the microphone of a recording machine for later broadcast.

Stalin was not among the Russians who met the Prime Minister and American representative at the airport. He was busy at the Kremlin.

First Meeting Of Leaders

The four days of negotiations, from Wednesday until Saturday, brought the British and Soviet war leaders together for the first time.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden last winter paid a visit to the Soviet Union, and Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov repaid the visit in May, when he signed the British-Soviet alliance on May 26.

Subsequently Molotov journeyed to Washington, where he saw President Roosevelt, and after he had returned to Moscow simultaneous announcements in London and Washington disclosed that the alliance had been signed and that the leaders of Britain, Russia and the United States were in agreement on the urgency of establishing a second front against Hitler in 1942.

On the Soviet side, Molotov and Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, former defence commissar, and now a commander of Soviet reserve armies, assisted Stalin in the discussions.

REACH DECISIONS

LONDON (CP)—The announcement that "definite decisions" had been reached at Prime Minister Churchill's conference with Premier Stalin in Moscow was regarded in London today as evidence that the Soviet Union, Britain and the United States had reached a definite formula on how to beat the Axis, and when to open a second front.

3 Possible Moves To Follow Talks

Speculation on what the United States and Britain might have undertaken to do to aid Russia ranged here around three possible moves:

1. Invasion of Norway to safeguard the Murmansk supply route and establish a common front with Russia in the north.
2. Increase of air attacks on Germany to cripple her war production while at the same time building up the flow of supplies to Russia by all routes.
3. Invasion of Europe in a series of operations from Norway to Italy to ease the strain on the Red army.

Russians Leave Oil City Maikop Wreck for Nazis

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (CP)—Its valuable oil installations blasted and stripped of oil stocks, the Caucasian city of Maikop has been surrendered to the Germans while to the east the Russians fell back today toward another oil centre—the Grozny oil fields.

In the drive for the Grozny oil fields, and the Caspian Sea beyond, a mighty array of German armored forces pounded down the Rostov-Baku railway parallel to the Caucasus Mountains.

Farther north, German and Rumanian troops battered ceaselessly and with some success toward Stalingrad in the face of a thundering screen of Soviet artillery. Southeast of Kletskaya, 75 miles from Stalingrad, the Axis forces wedged anew into the Russian defences at great cost, the midnight Soviet communiqué said.

DO THOROUGH JOB

The Russians had plenty of time to destroy the oil installations of Maikop and an announcement that oil supplies had been removed and "oil establishments themselves made completely unusable," was taken here to mean that a typically thorough job of destruction had been performed.

The great weight of numerical superiority, especially in mechanized equipment, is giving the German drive toward Grozny its impetus as the Red Army continues to fall back to new lines southeast of Mineralnye Vody, 140 miles from Grozny. There was no indication of a stiffening of resistance although the midnight communiqué said Soviet forces "retreated to new positions and continued fighting."

At Krasnodar, north of Maikop and 60 miles northeast of the Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk, the Russians repulsed heavy attacks by German tanks and infantry, killing more than 300 Germans.

The Red Army's most critical front seemed to be that in the Don bend northwest of Stalingrad, especially in the Kletskaya sector, where the Germans were applying extreme pressure night and day in an effort to reach the important industrial and strategic centre of Stalingrad on the Volga.

(In Berlin the German high command claimed today the entire bend of the Don River guarding the approaches to Stalingrad now is in the hands of German troops as the result of heavy defeats inflicted upon the Red Army.

(Nazi columns also are advancing steadily in the northwest Caucasus, Berlin claimed, particularly south of the Kuban River where they are moving in the direction of the Black Sea port of Novorossisk, the high command said.

Ask Work Continue On Labor Day

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor said today it has sent a circular letter to its affiliated and chartered unions across Canada urging their members to work on Labor Day (Sept. 7), wherever possible in the interests of maximum war production.

The letter was signed by President A. R. Mosher and Secretary-Treasurer Pat Conroy.

"Since many unions have agreements covering statutory holidays the congress cannot interfere with them, but it strongly recommends that the workers forego the holiday and contribute it to the war effort in view of the seriousness of the present situation," said a C.C.L. statement.

"Although the attitude of the government and of employers toward labor organization has not been encouraging, nevertheless a job has to be done and that is to produce the greatest possible quantity of war materials for the armed forces."

Molotov Promoted

MOSCOW (AP)—Vyacheslav Molotov became Premier Stalin's chief aide for administration of the Soviet Union today by appointment to the new position of first vice-chairman of the council of people's commissars.

The position is equivalent to that of vice-premier. Molotov's appointment, announced by the Supreme Soviet, placed him next to Stalin in all cabinet business.

Molotov, who is foreign commissar, served as chairman of the council until just before the war, when Stalin succeeded him.

British Coastal Craft Sink Nazi Patrol Boat

LONDON (CP)—A light German patrol boat was sunk and three others severely damaged in a spirited clash with British light coastal craft in the Straits of Dover Sunday night, the Admiralty announced today.

All the British craft engaged in the clash returned to their base, but there were a few casualties aboard, the Admiralty said.

The German force consisted of "five or six enemy R-boats," the communiqué said.

British sailors set one afire and saw it sink. The German commanding officer was killed, and 15 German sailors were picked up.

Another enemy boat was rammed and so seriously damaged it was believed to have failed to reach its base. Two more "R-boats" were severely damaged by gunfire, the Admiralty added.

Coastal batteries engaged in the action, the Admiralty said, explaining the mystery of gunfire heard in the Channel and the cross-channel duels of German and British heavy artillery last night.

The "R-boat" is a German motor minesweeper, which usually is larger than the motor torpedo boat used by the Germans in the Channel. The designation was adopted from the German "raumen," meaning to clear the way.

Jane's lists two types of R-boats, one displacing 45 tons and another 90 tons.

Scrap Hoarding Illegal

OTTAWA (CP)—Steel Controller F. B. Kilbourn, faced with demands from war industry for vast quantities of scrap metal, has issued a drastic order making it illegal to hoard iron and steel, whether in the form of machinery or scrap, it was announced today by the munitions and supply department.

Without a permit, no person except a scrap dealer or scrap consumer, may keep possession after Sept. 15 of any scrap metal weighing more than 500 pounds. For purpose of the order scrap metal includes machinery, structural steel or any other article or commodity containing iron or steel, if it is not serving "an immediate vital purpose."

"The time has come when the shortage of steel calls for drastic measures," Mr. Kilbourn said in the statement. "Nearly 1,000,000 tons of scrap now are needed for ships, guns, tanks, planes and other war supplies. It is essential that we obtain that scrap."

Although the definition (in the order) is broad enough to take in passenger cars and trucks not now in essential use, it is not an invitation to order the disposal of such vehicles," he said. "We will, however, insist on the application of the order to vehicles which are in automobile grave yards."

Fences, steel in partly-completed buildings and machinery not in actual operation in nonwar plants are covered by the order, but will not at present be affected.

"The object of the order," said Mr. Kilbourn, "is to compel disposal of old or obsolete machinery or scrap metal, which has been held for a better price or because of some imaginary future need."

"Such hoarders will be dealt with severely if they do not comply with the regulations." The order provides that if anyone comes into possession after Sept. 15 of scrap metal weighing 500 pounds or more, he must dispose of it within 20 days. If the owner of a machine or other metal defined in the order of scrap believes that he cannot dispose of it by Sept. 15 to a national salvage committee or any recognized salvage agency, or if he believes he would be serving a useful purpose by retaining it, he must send in a report to the used goods administrator of the War-time Prices and Trade Board in Toronto. His report must reveal the description, quantity and location of the scrap metal.

"After Sept. 15 anyone, other than a scrap dealer or consumer, who is in possession of scrap metal weighing 500 pounds or more, which he has not reported, will be subject to a fine of up to $5,000, or imprisonment for up to five years, or both fine and imprisonment," the departmental statement said.

Canada Now Produces New Tank Machine Gun

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has begun production of a "new and improved" rapid-firing tank machine gun, the Browning .30 calibre, it was announced today by Munitions Minister Howe.

"The new weapon is being made according to the latest design of United States army experts," the minister's statement said. "It will be fitted into tanks for Canadian as well as British and Russian use."

Simultaneously, Mr. Howe announced a speed-up in monthly output of the Browning aircraft machine gun.

"Now that we have completed most of our plant expansion, we are fast approaching all-out production," he said. "Evidence of this is contained in the production figures for the Browning aircraft machine gun. More than half the total quantity of these machine guns so far produced in Canada were turned out during the past three months."

The Browning aircraft machine gun is standard equipment for Empire aircraft. Two, four, six, eight or 12 of the guns may be mounted on a single plane, depending on size of the plane and its tactical use. Three different types are produced in Canada, two for use in turrets and one for a fixed wing position.

Firing from belts containing 300 to 500 rounds, the Browning is said to have the greatest destructive power of any weapon of its calibre. In actual combat it has literally seen planes in two, and on more than one occasion has sunk 5,000-ton merchant ships by concentrated fire along the water line.

Detroit Annoyed

Life 'Yellow' Says Mayor

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit's mayor and leaders of its union labor today took torrid issue with an account of this city's performance in the war production effort published in the current issue of Life magazine.

The article was torn from some copies of the magazine by customs officials before they were permitted to cross into Canada under orders which the U.S. collector of customs, Martin R. Bradley, said came from Washington. He added that the order was too late to prevent transportation of 100,000 copies to Windsor, Ont.

(A spokesman for the press censors of Canada said at Ottawa Canadian censorship was not involved.)

(At New York, C. D. Jackson, general manager of Life magazine, expressed surprise that orders had been given to tear out five pages before permitting copies of the magazine to enter Canada.)

NOT BROACHED

He said: "On Tuesday, we submitted copies of this week's Life, which is published on Friday, to the bureau of censorship. We went over the Detroit story word by word and phrase by phrase, making certain changes. But at no time was the Canadian question broached."

(Jackson said he understood shipments had been held up temporarily at Seattle, entry point to Vancouver, and at Pembina, N.D., entry point to Winnipeg, but that the bureau of economics had telegraphed releases.)

Mayor Edward J. Jeffries and R. J. Thomas, president of the C.I.O. United Auto Workers, contended that the five-page leading article, entitled "Detroit Is Dynamic," had unjustly impugned Detroit's patriotism.

The Life article stated that Detroit's war production had been "cut by wildcat strikes and sitdowns" and that the city's "workers, led by the lusty U.A.W., seem to hate and suspect their bosses more than ever."

Reporting "a morale situation which is perhaps the worst in the United States," Life also said Detroit was failing to solve its housing problem and reported on "inter-racial strife."

"I'll match Detroit's patriotism against any other city's in the country," Mayor Edward J. Jeffries said.

"Why, anyone who lives here knows we haven't had a major labor dispute, except the D.S.R. (Detroit's department of street railways) last year, in three years," Jeffries said.

"The whole story in Life is scurrilous, with just enough half truths to impress anyone who doesn't know the facts."

Asked if Detroit would take any action to repudiate the picture story, Jeffries said he didn't think so.

'YELLOW'

"I'd just call it a yellow magazine and let it go at that," Jeffries asserted. "Anyone who would write anything like that would not appreciate the facts."

"Of course, Life doesn't tell anything about the real miracles of machines that have been performed. Nothing about the Chrysler tank production. Nothing about what Ford has done in making airplane engines. Nothing about Packard that now makes a Rolls-Royce motor for less per unit in spite of high wages than the same motor costs in England."

Continues Probe Of Wood Fuel Here

Continuing his investigation into the sawdust and wood fuel situation on Vancouver Island, D. Roy Cameron of Ottawa, deputy wood fuel administrator left Victoria Saturday, for fuel production centres up Island.

Thursday and Friday, Mr. Cameron conferred here with local officers of the War-time Prices and Trade Board and distributors and producers of wood fuel and sawdust.

He is expected to return to this city Tuesday to continue conferences.

Mr. Cameron said Saturday he will have no statement to make public until the conclusion of his investigations.

Blimp Officers Missing at Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two naval officers, missing when their crewless and broken blimp floated in from the ocean and descended on a street in suburban Daly City, were hunted at sea off the Golden Gate today. The blimp had been on a routine anti-submarine patrol flight.

Two lifebelts were missing from the craft when it landed, but all parachutes and the rubber life raft were found in the gondola where the two officers-crewmen rode.

The blimp, sagging in the middle, with big tears visible in its fabric and with its two motors idle, drifted in from the Pacific Sunday morning, five hours after it had taken off on a flight.

The craft wandered along at treetop height, left one of its depth charges on the lakeside golf course when a bomb rack scraped the ground, and settled to earth in nearby Daly City. It struck one house and two autos, but caused little damage.

There was considerable damage to the fabric and gondola, but navy maintenance men said the ship could be put back into service.

One depth charge still in the bomb rack under the gondola offered no hazard in as much as it would explode only under water, naval men said.

German Executed

BERLIN (AP)—The Frankfurter Zeitung reports that a German, Erich Deibel, was executed Saturday for high treason and "crimes by radio." This was one of the few times that German execution announcements have specified the nature of the crime. The announcements usually say simply "for treasonable activity." Deibel "attempted to destroy the resistance of the German people," the announcement said.

'We're All On the Same Level'
Says Meighen, Asking Equality

TORONTO (CP)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, national leader of the Conservative Party, called on Canada Sunday for "a master plan for manpower spread over the whole nation, with no favoritism, no sectionalism and no racialism."

In an address at the annual memorial service for Sir Adam Beck, founder of the Ontario Hydro-electric System, Mr. Meighen declared: "We are all going to stand or fall together in this the Armageddon of history... it is a war of survival and it will take all of us to win."

It would be fatal for Canada to "permit the dregs of isolationism to poison or debilitate the national effort in this crisis. Isolationism in Europe, in America, in Canada, is the parent of our calamities."

While paying tribute to Prime Minister Mackenzie King for Canada's decision to stand at Britain's side in the war, the Conservative leader said that in "tolerating at this fateful time impediments which spring from such a source (isolationism) there is no rhyme, reason or sense... we all stand or fall together and the trysting hour is near."

UNJUST, HARMFUL

Assailing the voluntary enlistment system in Canada, Mr. Meighen asserted "voluntarism is particularly unjust and harmful. It sows the seeds of indifference. The very fact that it is officially accepted gives birth to a totally false and inadequate conception of the colossal dimensions of peril of this war. To multitudes of people it displays the national will as weak and indecisive. It leads the contempt of authority and defiance of the state."

Great Britain he described as the "bastion of this continent" and "in the presence of that truth has the individual the right to say whether he fights, or when he fights or where he fights... their very numbers make the voluntary system in our Dominion a contortion and a cruel wrong."

"We are all on the same level in the matter of rights and we are all on the same level in the matter of duty and it is the business of the government of Canada... to supplant what is futile and unfair by what is strong and just and to establish now in practical effect equality of service, equality under the law."

Speaking of clamor for a second front, Mr. Meighen said that "we are on the defensive on six fronts right today." He cited Libya, the South Pacific, the North Pacific, China, Russia and the Atlantic.

SUFFERING

"This tide of events has to be turned right around or we are done... we in Canada have to do a lot more of the turning than we have done yet. We have to do a lot more of the work, a lot more of the planning and fighting, a lot more of the suffering than we have done yet or attempted to do. In truth, what we have done already is only a sample of what is to come."

Later he said: "This is our war and we have to win it or perish. The struggle we are in is for our survival. The man who says at such a time as this that he has special rights, that he has the right to fix special limits on what he does for the state, that man is only half a citizen; and there is no place for half citizens in total war."

European chemists are said to be considering for use in war, various, confusable oils of the fatty type, and oils from ash seed, blackthorn, henbane, pumpkin, tomato, asparagus, haw, currant and blueberry.

Air Minister Power
Meets Ernie Scroggs

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Canada's Air Minister, Hon. C. G. Power, spent Sunday visiting Canadian corps headquarters and seeing two of the Dominion's famous French-Canadian regiments, the Royal 22nd and the Regiment de la Chaudiere.

A guard of honor turned out at corps headquarters as Maj. Power was received by Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar.

Saturday the minister was taken on a nine-hour air tour of Midlands airdromes at which he saw four squadrons which will form part of the first Canadian air group in Britain and a night fighter squadron which has distinguished itself in recent action against enemy raiders over Britain.

He went to the Beaufighter night-fighter squadron which is under command of Wing-Comdr. W. Ellis of the R.A.F.

He was introduced by Sqdn. Ldr. F. W. Hillock of Toronto, to Sgts. Nestor Iowski of Prince George, B.C.; Mervyn Ferries of Whitecourt, Sask., and Ernie Scroggs of Victoria, B.C.

NINE O'CLOCK PRAYER

Upon instructions of our executive council, we are asking your paper to publish a call that all persons will pause for a few moments at 9 each evening and utter a prayer that peace with honor, victory and justice to the cause of the United Nations shall be brought into reality.

We firmly believed that the time has come when men and women of all creeds and colors, regardless of their station in life or the responsibilities they are exercising, should join together in a creedless, universal prayer, that can carry the heartfelt thoughts of every man, woman and child of our race. We believe this to be a war between the forces of spirituality and the forces of evil. If we truly so believe then this simple service will be responded to.

The 9 o'clock prayer has been inaugurated for some two years, and today millions of English people observe this simple rite, without fail each day. All over the British Empire and the United States, small, sincere groups are also engaging in this prayer, and we hope that here in Canada the same thing will come to pass. This Fellowship has prepared a brief order of service and a brief explanation of the principles involved in the 9 o'clock prayer, and we would be glad to mail a copy to any of your readers who care to inquire for one.

We also invite the public to join in the moment of prayer broadcast from station CJOR—600 on the wave band.

SHIPBUILDING HOURS

I have just read your report of the shipyard recommendations in The Times and if this subject was not such a serious matter, interfering as it does in a man's way of living, it would be quite amusing to read the various pros and cons, for and against, by officials who apparently know nothing of the subject, and by the same token, have the means of getting the information through the Employers and Canadian Manufacturers Association.

You quote the opinions of Mr. Hammill and Mr. Yarrow. It is evident from the quotations given that neither of these gentlemen has had any contact with any plant with a continuous production, year in and year out, of 168 hours weekly. May I suggest, respectfully, that when those gentlemen take their next vacation, for them to take a trip east, stopping at the Algoma Steel Works first, then continuing easterly. They will find numerous plants that have worked successfully 168 hours weekly for years and are still doing so. But, and it's a big but, unless you have the correct number of key men skilled in their work, you cannot run one shift per day, without thinking of three.

Mr. Yarrow rightly stated that on Sundays it was necessary to have the plant idle so that the maintenance men could do the necessary repairs.

There are two angles to the production of ships. First, we want ships produced as efficiently and as fast as possible. Second, we want the workers to have the best possible assistance to perform their job.

Let me relate some very efficient plants where the 21-shift week has been in vogue for years. Goodyears Ltd. of New Toronto, and Akron, Ohio, no small plant. The men there start at 7 a.m., 3 p.m., 3 p.m. to 11 p.m., 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. daily. Each week the men really work 20 shifts, 6 shifts of eight hours, then a shift off, spare men taking the place of the men as they take their day off.

WHY PUT UP WITH
TEMPORARY RELIEFHow to Correct Constipation
Without "Dosing"

LONDON, Canada: Not getting enough of the right kind of "bulk" in your diet is a common cause of constipation. If this is your case, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can help you become regular... naturally.

Try a bowl of ALL-BRAN every morning, drink plenty of water, and discover how regular you become. Keep ahead of constipation... with ALL-BRAN! In two convenient sizes at your nearest grocer's. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

At the Otis-Fensom Bofors Plant, Hamilton, continuous production is obtained through two shifts of 12 hours each. After each operator puts in his 60 hours he must take his day off, getting time and one-half pay for over 44 hours' work. This has been in operation since Sept., 1941, and is now severely afflicted with absenteeism. This is to be expected through the long hours worked.

Mr. Horace Hunter, president of Maclean's Publishing Co., stated in 1941, after a visit to England, that as soon as the war started all the factories started working seven days a week; soon absenteeism was manifest, the men working Sunday to get the overtime rate, and laying off through the week. Then the employers cut out the Sunday work, and more was produced in the six days than in seven. They then cut the week further to 5 1/2 days, and production was still kept up at the same peak or better for the 5 1/2 days than had been got for seven days' labor.

Now if this is the case (as I do not doubt it is, coming as it does from an editorial by Mr. Hunter in his Canadian Machinery), with all classes of men skilled for years in shipbuilding, how can it be expected that men not so skilled can do better? But if the yards must work continuously here, the most effective method, used in most plants in the east, is the 20-shift week, commencing at 3 p.m. Sunday to 7 a.m. the following Sunday, the plant being idle on Sundays from 7 a.m. till 3 p.m., allowing for necessary repairs that must be done in all plants, the shifts rotating weekly as:

First week: A starts at 3 p.m. Sunday till 11 p.m.; B starts at 11 p.m. Sunday till 7 a.m. Monday; C starts at 7 a.m. Monday till 3 p.m.

Second week: C starts at 3 p.m. Sunday; B starts at 7 a.m. Monday; A starts at 11 p.m. Monday. As to whether the Sunday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. should be the idle time would be decided by the men themselves, as they may prefer the Saturday shift from 3 to 11 to be the idle shift. And they should also get time-and-a-half for all over 44 hours, as is done elsewhere.

The times 7 to 3, 3 to 11, and 11 to 7 were and are used owing to the transportation. At present in Victoria and Vancouver, according to my information, the times are 8 to 4, 4 to 12, and 12 to 8. It is obvious at 12 midnight no street cars are to be had to convey workers home, whereas if the men quit at 11 p.m. they can get home by street car, and still the morning shift can get a car for 7 a.m.

This is the problem of transportation solved by the Hamilton and Toronto street railway systems, and has been in operation for years, and would solve the problem here also. There is really no problem at all; excepting to use the methods already successfully in use by the foremost plants in Canada, without trying to improve on them.

AUSTRALIA TALKS
CONSCRIPTION

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Arthur W. Fadden, Australian parliamentary opposition leader, is demanding a showdown on the conscription issue.

Under the Australian Defence Act men may be conscripted only for home defence, not for service outside the country. Fadden contends that since it is continually being stated that an offensive will be undertaken soon against the Japanese which will involve sending Australian forces abroad, the government "should immediately remove the limitations of the area of service of the militia in order that we have one powerful Australian army."

For more than 20 years the Labor Party, the majority in present government, has opposed conscription for overseas service.

During recent months the government has made numerous attempts to unify the conscript militia and the volunteer Australian Imperial force. It started by equalizing the pay and taxation of both sections of the army. It mixed A.E.F. and militia units in training. It decided that if 75 per cent of a militia unit voluntarily joined the A.I.F. the whole unit would be considered in the A.I.F., which necessarily meant that it would be available for overseas service—in other words, involving conscription for service abroad of the minority, but it has not amended the defence act to permit compulsory service for overseas.

Isley Explains
New Income Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—Operation of Canada's unprecedented 1942-43 income tax structure was outlined Sunday night by Finance Minister Hon. J. L. Isley and Revenue Minister-Hon. C. G. Gibson, in addresses over the CBC's national network.

Special stress was placed on the new compulsory savings or minimum savings requirements which provides that a portion of the taxpayer's total outlay may be returned at 2 per cent interest after the war.

In outlining the new methods, Mr. Isley disclosed Canada's earning power has increased an estimated 70 per cent since the war started and expressed belief the new taxes "are well within the ability of the people to pay."

"In fact, many people seem to be overimpressed with the harshness of this year's taxes," he said, "stressing that certain features such as the refundable portion made the taxation less burdensome than it might appear at first glance."

SACRIFICE NEEDED

But, he added, the enemy had shown preparedness for any sacrifice and Canadians would have to save as they had never saved before to win the war.

A reduction in the standard of living thus was essential, but he was impressed by the willingness of Canadians to make any necessary sacrifices.

In framing new taxation proposals, the government's aim had been to make payment as easy as possible. Thus, although war expenditures were estimated at $3,000,000,000, and approximately $1,750,000,000 had to be raised by borrowing, the possibility of making all savings compulsory had been frowned upon.

"Any large-scale scheme of compulsory saving would mean intolerable hardship in individual cases," Mr. Isley said.

The task of promoting voluntary savings was entrusted to the national war finance committee, which would hold special loan campaigns from time to time. Local units and organizations had been set up in every province and the aid of volunteer workers solicited.

The alternative of meeting war costs from taxes and borrowing was inflation—and Mr. Isley said he was confident everyone knew what that would mean.

Remarkable Mr. Churchill

NOW WE KNOW FOR CERTAIN WHY the British press and official spokesmen in London have had nothing to say about the whereabouts of Mr. Churchill during the last week or so. The Prime Minister and Premier Stalin had their heads close together in Moscow from Aug. 12 until last Saturday. We also are informed that Mr. W. Averell Harriman, President Roosevelt's roving representative, attended the conferences. Official London says "a number of decisions covering the war against Hitlerite Germany" were reached, which harmonized with the Russian communiqué, the latter adding that the two political heads reaffirmed the alliance of their respective nations against the Axis—in "an atmosphere of cordiality and complete sincerity."

Apart from the significance and importance of this first meeting between Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin—momentous in itself for the apparent identity of outlook which it has enabled them to reach face to face—it may conceivably dilute in large measure the propaganda in which Berlin for some weeks has been indulging in respect of the "second front" and the delay in launching such a diversion. Happily for the cause of the United Nations, both men are realists; both are military as well as political strategists; both have the good will and unanimous support of the peoples whose destinies are more or less in their keeping. And four days in intimate association in the capital of the nation which has sacrificed so much in excess of all the rest of the democratic coalition put together will have accomplished more of practical usefulness than months of long-range collaboration. The implications inherent in this unchallengeable fact will not be lost on the men of Berlin and Tokyo.

What the Prime Minister and the Soviet Premier accomplished in detail, of course, will be kept as officially secret as Mr. Churchill's movements in recent weeks. Hitler and Hirohito would give many divisions for a verbatim account of the Moscow conversations. Sooner or later it will be revealed to them in the form of action best calculated to upset their latest plans for the establishment of totalitarianism's new order. As this is written, incidentally, neither British nor Russian advances announce the present whereabouts of Mr. Churchill. But before this is read he may have arrived back in London. If such an assurance be lacking, however, there will be plenty of scope for further speculation.

The Unco' Guid

CRITICISM OF THE CONDUCT OF public business of this country reached a new high in puerile absurdity in the editorial columns of the Colonist yesterday morning. Our contemporary was discussing the increased income tax and the decision of the Minister of Finance and the Minister of National Revenue to talk to the Canadian people intimately about it over the airways on the traditional day of rest—a decision it appeared to deplore, because the government "has every week-day to carry on this propaganda." But here are the morning paper's words:

"Today, on the Sabbath, the Minister of Finance and the Minister of National Revenue are to speak on the subject over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Surely the peace of this day should not be broken by political harangues of this kind. There are six days of each week during which ministers of the government can discuss, or excuse the courses of actions they take, but at least on each Sunday the air should be free from their exhortations and explanations."

It will be noted that in one sentence the Colonist classifies the broadcast with "political harangues" and in the next with "exhortations and explanations." Since our contemporary rather prides itself on its purism it should have been careful to have placed more than four lines between two conflicting terms. But what a small part logic plays in its deep-rooted antipathy to the present administration at Ottawa is best reflected in this further reference to yesterday's broadcast:

"When the fact of today's broadcast on income tax is taken in conjunction with the decision of the government that the Day of Prayer which His Majesty has set for the third anniversary of the war's outbreak will not be observed in Canada there cannot fail to be misgivings about the ethical outlook of the politicians at Ottawa."

The two extracts from the Colonist editorial, while ridiculous to the nth degree, are strangely at variance with the charge it has levelled at the Ottawa government with monotonous regularity—that the King ministry is conducting a middle-of-the-road war effort, that it thinks only of its own political hide, and that, in general, it should vacate office and turn over the reins to what it calls a national government.

Apart from the fact that the broadcast was intended to give important information to the Canadian people on a matter vitally affecting every Canadian household, and was, in fact, a discussion that was unquestionably listened to carefully by hundreds of thousands, the morning paper at least might have had the decency to give the two ministers credit for reminding the people—through the medium of their voices on this occasion—that they work on a seven-day basis. And, descending to the level of our contemporary's strange reasoning, supposing the Prime Minister had decreed special observance of the Day of Prayer on Thursday, Sept. 3—the third anniversary of the outbreak of war—the Colonist, to be consistent, necessarily must have scolded him for interfering with the national war effort in the middle of the working week.

Sensible people will not be worrying unduly about "the ethical outlook of the politicians at Ottawa" because they have been left to do their own praying in their own way. In the meantime, however, they will have noted these plain truths which fell from Mr. Isley's lips yesterday afternoon: "There is no easy way to win this war; there is no easy way to pay for it; Canadians will have to cut down their standards of living still further." That is the kind of "political harangue" which is good for all of us on Sunday or any other day—even though it may offend our contemporary's ethical concept of organized prayer.

Vital Moments in India

HAPPILY FOR INDIA, BRITAIN, AND the United Nations, the first week's operation of the "nonviolent nonco-operation" campaign has not been as serious as even the most pessimistic expected it would be. It is to be regretted that loss of life, considerable property damage, and some economic dislocation have been occasioned. Encouraging, however, is the new attempt to find a solution which began to take shape yesterday. That moderates in the Congress Party and influential Indians propose to approach the Viceroy with some formula likely to find sympathy in London inspires the hope that disorders will be kept in check while such conversations are only in the informal stage.

It is superfluous to repeat that no new avenue calculated to lead to a settlement should be left unexplored. And although majority opinion in British lands inclines to the belief that Britain was faced with no practical option when confronted with the Congress resolution and Mr. Gandhi's immovable attitude, an India torn by internal strife with unpredictable potentialities for grievous harm to the cause of the United Nations is a prospect which demands clear thinking and statesmanship of the highest order. But if statesmanship is to be given a fair chance it must be allowed to operate in an atmosphere not charged with the virus of fanaticism. The sincerity and good-faith of the Congress Party will be measured by its helpfulness in the new development now foreshadowed.

The suggestion that Britain send a parliamentary delegation to New Delhi to confer with a body representative of Indian thought would appear to present no insuperable obstacle. But to be successful, judged by the present temper of the Congress Party and the government in London, the main participants in the controversy will have to retreat to positions that may or may not have been prepared in advance. And the case of the Muslim League's substantial minority will demand careful and equitable treatment in any new pourparlers. What is patent to all, to India's friends and enemies alike, is that by leaving matters as they stand now, only the Axis powers have any reasonable ground for satisfaction. Japan's legions are on the threshold of the great subcontinent; they are neither interested in Mr. Gandhi's philosophy nor differences of opinion as to whether the government of India acted correctly or unwisely when it ordered the arrest of "the great soul" and many of his colleagues. The fact that the majority of the Viceroy's advisers are Indians is belittled by some and given exaggerated importance by others.

This is mainly Britain's problem, despite the fact that the future of the United Nations' cause is inextricably bound up in what transpires in the next few weeks. But if there shall be manifested by the dominant political party in India a genuine desire to reopen peace negotiations on a less rigid basis than its resolution of Aug. 7 laid down, leaders of the democratic coalition will desire and support another approach on more practicable and feasible lines. All must realize, of course, that the time element is important.

What Does Adolf Say?

SEVERAL MONTHS AGO THE PEOPLE of Italy heard frequent "pep" talks over the Rome radio from Mario Appellius. He is the man who used to fire Mussolini's verbal shells of the largest calibre. The other night he was at it again; but this latest outburst from Mario must have been a product of the propaganda factory of the Herr Doktor Goebbels. Here is part of it:

"We are satisfied. We are very satisfied. We have overcome enormous difficulties. We are intelligent. We are capable. We are full of great virtues."

Well, if Signor Appellius really believes what he says, it only goes to show how satisfied some people can be with so little after promising to do so much. Those rude persons in democratic lands who note particularly Mario's last claim may feel inclined to change that sentence to suit their own vocabularies.

Analysis of income tax rates shows that a $5,000-a-year man with two children now has to pay $1,662, or more than 14 times as much as the $118 he paid in 1938. The $10,000-a-year man, after paying his 1942 tax, will have only $572 more net income than the $5,000-a-year man had after paying his 1938 tax.

PERSONAL EXPLANATION

YOU CANNOT BE LONG in this business without acquiring a deep sense of sympathy for the great unknown public; not because the public is any more ignorant than you are but because it is in the same state of bewilderment. And whereas no journalist ever admits to bewilderment and no editorial page in America has ever been wrong about anything, the public has no such inhibitions. It is ready to admit that it doesn't know what is happening about anything.

That is, part of the public. This part seeks relief in writing private letters to journalists. (The other part, which knows, writes letters to the editor for publication and is perfectly happy. Even obscure journalists like this one receive surprising communications from all over the place so that prominent journalists must have little time left over, after answering their correspondence, to do any work.

However, so that those who write to me may know what has happened to their letters I think it wise, every generation or so, to explain my method of correspondence and thus avoid disappointment and hard feelings. I always take the greatest care of letters. I file them away in a neat bundle, under a heavy dictionary and finally with an ancient walrus tusk on top to make sure there is enough weight to hold them down. This always holds them down.

Right in front of me now the walrus tooth and dictionary have been holding down a large pile of letters for months and, so perfect is my filing system, that not one letter has moved an inch from its original position. You can see where the sun has tanned the edges of the paper while, inside, it is quite white. This I call a triumph for modern office efficiency.

EFFICIENCY

Every year or so I deal with these letters carefully. I lay the walrus tusk aside and remove the dictionary and, with one simple quick motion of the wrist, sweep all the letters into the fireplace. It is surprising how quickly a trained hand can whisk a bale of letters into a fireplace. It is amazing how efficient journalists become with long practice. In the end this is the most painless method for the journalist and for the person who writes to him. What use is it for me to tell a lady in Shenandoah, Iowa, why Canada chose the maple leaf as its national emblem, when I don't know and cannot imagine? What value is my advice to a gentleman who wants to retire and cannot choose between Saanich, the Fraser Valley, Comox and the Okanagan? And who am I to understand the mysteries of the Maritime mind which lately has been conducting a fierce crusade against me in the columns of the Halifax Herald because, it is alleged, I am prejudiced against that part of the country, not having mentioned it for weeks—who am I to answer the angry letters from that quarter, especially when the writers do not send their address but expect me to know it, apparently, from the mere flavor of their writing?

PURGE

Many people will consider it ill-bred and brutal to treat them so but as soon as this is finished I am going to remove the walrus tusk and conduct my annual purge, and in the end it is the kindest method. The writers have said what they want to say to me, generally with abuse, and there is nothing I can say to them that will alter their minds. So I will cling to the walrus tusk.

Nevertheless, such letters indicate a state of public mind at once alarming and encouraging. Alarming, because evidently countless people all over America are seeking wisdom from the worst possible sources, writing to the most ignorant authorities, securing the most absurd views from those most incompetent to give any.

Alarming also, because it indicates a disposition to gain knowledge by the easiest methods. Now-a-days if a member of a ladies' literary society is asked to give a talk on the work of Bernard Shaw she does not read Bernard Shaw; she writes to him and expects him to do all the work for her. Why, in some school boy's essay contest in England the other day one of the contestants was stumped by a question about Mr. Roosevelt and he promptly wrote to the White House and got a reply and won the first prize. It was easier than reading a few books.

Apparently no man can be successful now-a-days without paying strictest attention to his fan mail, without hiring a secretary to answer it, and all persons who seek public support, like politicians or movie stars, live in deadly fear of insulting some obscure person in the wilds of Tennessee, as if their whole future depended on him. Only persons who do not expect success and are not seeking the public franchise can use the walrus tusk technique.

Nevertheless, the search for public knowledge, whatever its form, offers some encouragement. At least people want to know and their thirst for truth makes you feel very humble at times. I think I shall not throw away the accumulation of my desk for another six months.

The average life of a coin is 25 years. That's what it gets for traveling so fast.

Ceylon Under War

From Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

A striking feature of the war in the Far East has been the prominence accorded to small islands and outposts which, in peacetime, seldom if ever find their way into the world's news. The requirements of military strategy frequently attach considerable value to areas whose importance is negligible from economic and political viewpoints.

In the case of Ceylon, however, there is a good deal to attract the attention of the aggressor besides its strategic location. The island is large, measuring 270 miles in length by 140 miles in width, an area roughly half the size of England. It is densely populated, having nearly six million inhabitants. Most important of all, in the light of current conditions is the fact that Ceylon is a fairly large producer of rubber, tea and other tropical commodities. The island is also the leading supplier of high-grade graphite in the British Empire.

Both population and intensive cultivation are concentrated to a great degree in the south-western portion of the island. In this area, rainfall is very heavy, ranging from 80 inches per year in the coastal regions, where coconuts are the main crop, to 200 inches in the highlands, where the famous Ceylon teas are grown. The northern and north-eastern parts of Ceylon are dry and malarial. In the south-west some 5,000 square miles are cultivated of which approximately 1,100,000 acres are given over to coconut production, 850,000 acres to rice, 604,111 acres to rubber, 556,000 acres to tea and the balance to cocoa and spices. Tea is the major export of Ceylon; in the year 1939, the latest for which figures are available, exports of this commodity totalled well over 200,000,000 pounds. Rubber is also exported in considerable quantities however, and in 1939 about 135,000,000 pounds were shipped. Normally about 54 per cent of Ceylon's exports of crude rubber go to the United States and 23 per cent to Great Britain. New tapping methods are expected to effect a material increase in crude rubber production.

Graphite exports in 1940 totalled nearly 54,000,000 pounds, of which Great Britain took about 35 per cent and the United States 25 per cent.

POLITICALLY INDIAN
While Ceylon is separated from India only by Palk Strait and the Gulf of Mannar, and has been peopled from India since remote times, it has always remained politically separate from India. Some sixty-four per cent of the population is made up of Sinhalese, descendants of colonists from Bengal and Gujarat in Northern India, who settled in Ceylon as far back as the year 543 B.C. These original settlers were followed before long by Tamil invaders, whose descendants, Hindu in religion, form an important part of the population. More recently there has been a steady influx of other Tamil immigrants who now number nearly 700,000. These are for the most part plantation workers, who commonly make frequent trips back to their homes in India. Other racial groups are Moors, of Arab origin, "Ceylon Burghers," of European stock, Malays, and finally British planters, merchants and administrators. It is reported that despite the great variety of races and religions there is a strong sense of unity and loyalty to the British Crown.

Ceylon has a form of government which is said to be unique in the Colonial system, and which

DR. TOLMIE RECALLED

From Richmond Times-Dispatch
Here on our own continent we neglected one of the greatest opportunities we ever had to aid our defense by the development of the tourist trade. Once upon a time there was a Dr. S. F. Tolmie, who served as Premier of British Columbia, and as Canada's Minister of Agriculture. He was considered an excellent veterinarian, but his imaginative powers were not regarded with a great deal of respect. Perhaps that is why his big idea fell through.

Dr. Tolmie thought it would be a wonderful thing to have a broad highway between the United States and Alaska to promote the tourist trade, and he sought to interest the governments of Canada and the United States in the project. In 1930, he took a group from the United States and Canada on a tour to show them the possibilities such a road might have. If we had had such a highway at the beginning of the war—we are building one now—the Japs might never have got a foothold in the Aleutian Islands, and we would have had war materials sufficient to make Alaska far more secure, rolling over that road a long time ago. But as Bruce Hutchison points out in the August Asia, "it took the Japanese to demonstrate finally an obvious fact of geography, namely, that the outthrust tip of Alaska" is the natural route across the Pacific.

The Japs are now trying to block a royal road to Asia, but they doubtless wouldn't have had a chance if the late Dr. Tolmie's vision of a sovereign highway had been realized. Wherever he may be beyond the vale, we trust that Dr. Tolmie knows he is now a prophet with honor in his own country, and ours.

CARROT COFFEE

C. B. Perry in Comox Argus
A grandmother, born in 1826, often told me of the things done "in her young days."
Many times she told the story of an army officer who having breakfasted at her home, said the carrot coffee was as good coffee as he had ever tasted. Since deciding to write of this, as a wartime economy, I have been drinking it every day. In all the years since I first heard of it, I had never tried it out, but did not dare write about it without having tested it.

It would not be true to say I had never tasted better coffee but I have never tasted a more delicious substitute, nor a more satisfying one.
The preparation is very simple. Scrub the carrots well and slice thinly, lengthwise. Place in a moderate oven on cake coolers, in single layers. Watch carefully that they do not burn, and leave them until perfectly dry, crisp and dark brown. Don't grind them, but crush them in your hand when you make your coffee. About a cupful makes a pot of coffee.

This coffee can be made with either cold or boiling water. I prefer to start it with cold and add boiling water to settle it. A very little butter may be added when the carrots are quite crisp, but great care must be taken, lest the carrots burn.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION

From Ottawa Citizen
In its final report submitted to Parliament on July 25, the House of Commons committee on radio broadcasting said a lot of things about Gladstone Murray, the present general manager of the BBC. But with only one thing which the committee said has there been general agreement.

It is the statement that "Mr. Murray has rendered great service to Canadian broadcasting." That is an undeniable truth. And one of the reasons why Gladstone Murray has rendered great service to Canadian broadcasting is that he is the ablest radio man in Canada and one of the ablest in the world. He has had 20 years of radio experience—with all its vexations as well as triumphs—thirteen with the British Broadcasting Corporation and seven with the CBC.

On Tuesday, The Citizen printed an editorial from the Toronto Globe and Mail which drew attention to two important factors in the case of Mr. Murray. One is his radio experience, which is unique; the other is that much of the criticism levelled at Mr. Murray has nothing to do with the general manager's expense account. The Toronto newspaper referred to the personal antagonisms revealed by the evidence and then declared:

"But beyond all that there is only one question that should be of concern today. That is this: Is or is not Major Murray a good radio man?"

The Citizen believes that this aspect of the case is the real one and should be kept steadily in mind by the Board of Governors and the government.

I'm 1A, and if they want me as a person and a body, and they think I can do better service as a soldier, the responsibility is theirs.—William Saroyan, author and playwright.

'Mrs. Miniver' Best War Movie

Because it is a simple story, well acted, topical and realistic, the motion picture, "Mrs. Miniver," which was shown privately to its first Victoria audience Sunday night at the Capitol, will probably make motion picture history by continuing to break box office records set in 1940 by "Gone With the Wind." "Mrs. Miniver" is the best picture to date of World War II.

The movie is adapted from Jan Struther's novel of the same name and, if anything, Director William Wyler read more into the novel than the author intended to convey.

The story is concerned with Mr. and Mrs. Miniver (Canadian-born Walter Pidgeon and Greer Garson) and their three children. They live in a town close to London.

Mr. Miniver is an architect and the family is better off financially than average, living slightly beyond their income. Although there is no question of their love for England and their willingness to fight for their country, it is not until the war is brought into their home, that the Minivers' become conscious of their duties and the implications of war.

Vin, the eldest son, joins the R.A.F. Mr. Miniver, with his speechless, is called out for the Dunkerque evacuation. Mrs. Miniver overpowers a wounded but armed Nazi airman who had been shot down. Finally Vin's bride is killed and the Minivers from their Anderson shelter see their home destroyed by bombs.

The result of these tragedies is to spur the Minivers (like every English man and woman) to grit their teeth, and to display the bulldog strength that has won the admiration of the world. It is on this note that the picture ends.

Although the setting was such that it gave plenty of opportunity for action shots of battle and home defence, Director Wyler has steered clear of this side of the war which has already been presented often enough by Hollywood. Rather, with reserve, the war is depicted only as it affects the typical English family, their neighbors and their town.

In this way the director brings home to his audience realities of war which are not seen in the clashing of armies or Hollywood depictions of air raids.

The strength of the production lies in the reserve of the direction. The story is made real and vital, is loaded with humor and pathos, yet is never sentimental.

Oak Bay Shows Playground Work

Achievements of youngsters enjoying supervised play in Oak Bay during the summer months were demonstrated to parents at the Willows Park this afternoon.

Under the direction of the supervisor a short program was held, including folk dancing, tumbling, first aid demonstrations and a softball game. Displays of work included clay modeling, hooked rugs, braided string, French knitting, sketches, floral arrangements and scrapbooks filled with pictures for children at the Solarium.

On Wednesday morning at 10.30, a special aquatic program will be held at the Crystal Garden, followed by another on Friday at the same hour. Parents have been invited to see the progress made by the children on those days.

A public meeting will be held early in September at the Oak Bay Municipal Hall, when reports on the season's activities will be presented and suggestions received for next summer's program.

Hundreds at Park

Esquimalt Garrison Band played at the weekly Sunday concert in Beacon Hill Park yesterday. The two-hour program, including marches, waltzes and overtures, was enjoyed by hundreds of Victorians. Some took lunches and made the day of it; journeying home at the conclusion of the band concert. Every bench was filled.

A welcome breeze made the park cool and many took advantage of the shady trees and wooded walks.

This year, more than ever before, added numbers of Victorians have taken advantage of the nearness of the park. Wartime restrictions have canceled the use of cars for Sunday drives, and people are starting to "see Victoria first." Some people in the park yesterday, although they have lived within four blocks of Beacon Hill for the last three years, didn't know of the existence of Ursus Kermode, and the parrots which are to be found in the park. They were quite surprised to find there were peacocks, too.

More and more citizens are learning that there are many attractions within the city limits.

JIMMY DOOLITTLE NOW IN BRITAIN

LONDON (CP)—The presence here of Brig-Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led the U.S. army air force bombers in the attack on Japan last April 18, was disclosed for publication today.

Doolittle, it was indicated authoritatively, will not be attached permanently to the American air command in the European theatre.

This was his second special wartime mission to Britain. He came here in 1941, before the U.S. entered the war, as a member of a mission headed by Lt. Gen. George Brett, now Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air chief in the southwest Pacific.

Doolittle's arrival was a tightly-guarded secret until after he had conferred with Major-Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander-in-chief of the United States air forces in the European theatre, and his second-in-command, Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker.

He also made a three-day tour of American bases in Britain.

Merriman Talks Butter Shortage Seen in Canada

DIFFERENT NOW

From information given by young soldiers when they discuss army life the reports at the beginning of the war that the old type of rubber-lipped foghorn-voiced sergeant-major was out, is true. There is more real training and less talking in the army of today.

No longer is the ability to be heard for half a mile radius without the aid of a public address system a qualification for a sergeant. He has to pass examinations in a number of subjects. He has to know many things and he has to have the teacher's qualifications of passing on his knowledge.

He has to be a disciplinarian, of course. The polite conversation and suave methods of the ordinary office cannot apply where hundreds of men have to learn to obey a command immediately it is given and find out the reason later, if they do not know at the time it is given.

To young men entering the army from a sheltered home life, even the least irksome discipline may at first be such a striking change that they find it hard to take. To be told when to go to bed and when to get up seems the greatest irritation of all to many recruits. Without the regulation an army would be impossible and the person who said the only difference between reveille in the army and civilian life is, they use a bugle in the army. At home the alarm clock rings reveille.

However, though it may not apply to the same extent in the army now as in the old-time

"So, George, go back to church and keep going. You'll find thousands of sinners just like yourself there—so you'll be right at home. They need the church just like you do. Only the sinners need the church—the smug may go—but they don't need it. Don't let them get under your skin, either."

"And keep praying—anywhere—anytime—and regularly in church. You'll feel better."

AUTHOR UNKNOWN.

YOU CAN'T WIN

The old fiddler, Carter, about whom I was writing recently, sends this gem of philosophy from England.

"What is a man? In his boyhood he is an angel from heaven but in his schooldays he is an imp of mischief. In his manhood he is either one of the knuts, the pride of all the flappers or a misfit whose life is spent in continual ups and downs and ins and outs. If he falls in love and marries, his friends call him a mug and if he raises a family he is considered a fool. When he is fired he goes on the dole and this benevolent country pays him for doing nothing. When he works they stop the price of a pint for insurance. If he takes what isn't his he is clapped into jail, but if he floats a shaky company he is called a great financier. If he is poor he has no brains. If he is rich he is called a profiteer. If he goes to church he is a pharisee and if he stays away he is one of the devil's own. If he gives to charity he does it for show and if he doesn't he is mean. When he first comes into the world all the girls want to hug army, this cartoon by Colin Allen rates as one of the best of the war series humor.

It is not often a business firm issues anything of a religious nature. When Mackenzie, White and Dunsmuir, Ltd. issued a card, "Let Us Pray," a lot of people were surprised. Because it was issued by a business firm probably far more people read it than if it had been issued through the usual channels from which such cards are expected.

It is an outspoken talk by an unknown author that a reader, whom it impressed, asked should be printed. Here it is:

"So George, you were pretty d— critical when they called for a national day of prayer—calling a lot of guys that hadn't been in a church for years to pray for national safety, or anything else."

"Well, George—you've done some tall praying yourself. Remember when one of the kids was sick—how you tried to bargain with the Almighty—just to save the kid and what you would do and be—but how ashamed you were to try to deal with God on such short terms—really what you needed to pray for was medical skill for the kid—and lots of guts for yourself—no matter which way it went—the old chin up stuff."

"And you didn't pray in the church, either—neither did Martin Luther when he got caught in the lightning storm and made a deal with God for better living if he was spared—and most of the great prayers haven't been made in church."

"And when you thought it over, how surprised you were to find that all your life you had been praying. Sometimes you tried to kid yourself you were hoping—but all through your life, like every other man, you've prayed—prayed hard—and all around you other men have prayed."

"Too often, though, you've waited for emergencies—prayed when you figured everything else had failed—which wasn't shooting square with God—was it?"

him and before his hair turns white they want to strangle him. He comes into the world without his consent but if he leaves it of his own with a coroner's jury brings in a verdict of felo de se. If he dies at an early age they say he would have been a great man had he lived, and if he lives to a ripe old age they say he only does so to draw the old-age pension.

OLD STUFF

After all this talk of the changing habits of the ladies, it seems they have not really startled us with anything new. Scenes from Country Life from the Bod. M.S. of the 14th century in Barnard's Mediaeval England show they did much the same things then. To day they go to wrestling matches and call for blood and broken arms. In the 14th century they used to watch the bloody sport of cock-fighting. Though they make news and get their pictures in the paper now as land-girls when they go to work on the farm, it is nothing new. Pictures show them reaping and plowing in the 14th century. When women started to ride horse astride instead of side-saddle it was supposed to be an innovation. They rode astride in the 14th century. There were girl athletes then, too. They played bowls and fencé. Incidentally they wore dresses above their knees then as they do now.

Alberte Justice Dead

EDMONTON (CP)—Hon. Chas. R. Mitchell, 69, chief justice of the trial division of the Supreme Court of Alberta for the last six years, and Liberal cabinet minister in Alberta for 11 years, died in hospital today. He had been in failing health for several months.

The chief justice was born Nov. 20, 1872, at Newcastle, N.B. He was a nephew of Hon. Peter Mitchell, one of the Fathers of Confederation.

Butter Shortage Seen in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Possibility of a shortage of butter in Canada after the present season of heavy production ends is pictured by the Agricultural Supplies Board in a press release, which said rationing might be necessary unless farmers see to it that ample supplies are available.

"Butter for the domestic market appears to be the dairy product which might be in short supply when the present season of heavy production is over," said the board.

"With a view to avoiding a possible shortage next winter, a subsidy of six cents a pound butterfat delivered to creameries for the manufacture of creamery butter became effective July 6, and a campaign is under way for increased butter production, particularly during the coming winter and following season."

"Where last winter the emphasis was on cheese—since this product was scarce and the butter supply ample a year ago—this winter the emphasis should be on butter."

"It is to the interest of Canadian farmers to see that butter is available in ample supply to meet reasonable demand, and otherwise action may be necessary either in the way of rationing butter or of supplementing supplies."

Officer Honored At Pipers' Meet

Lt.-Col. Walter Bapty, who is leaving Victoria shortly for the east, was officially honored by the Vancouver Island Pipers' Society, Saturday night, in the auditorium of Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion.

It was a typical pipers' night, and, according to Lt.-Col. John MacGregor, V.C., commander of the Second Canadian Scottish, "there is no better way of entertaining our former commanding officer than with a night like this."

WINNING NU IRE'S

The pipe band of the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Scottish Regiment, under the direction of Pipe-Major Ian Duncan, played the same selections which won that unit the Pacific coast championship award at the recent Caledonia Games held in Vancouver. The cup won at that event was on display in the auditorium throughout the evening.

Guests of the affair included Major-Gen. A. E. Potts, officer commanding the Sixth Division; Brig. H. W. Murdoch, commander of an infantry brigade. Donald McLean, veteran piper of the Cameron Highlanders, and George MacBeth, an old club member, were introduced with others by Capt. C. R. Wilson, president.

FRENCH SECTION IN ACTIVE ARMY

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the more difficult problems associated with expansion of the Canadian army, the provision of French-speaking officers for French-speaking units, is on the way towards solution.

Since establishment of the Canadian Officers' Training Centre at Brockville a year and a half ago more than 1,100 French-speaking officers have qualified for commissions there—many of them are young chaps in their late teens and early twenties.

They and those who follow them through the French wing of the training centre will go a long way toward providing the French-speaking units of the active army, in Canada and overseas with staffs of young, competent and fit junior officers.

While many units are officially French, in which the French language is used, they are not the only ones in which French-speaking soldiers serve.

What a Mistake

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The sign over a door in the medical department of the induction centre was efficient until a recruit, blind in one eye, approached it from his sightless side. Clad in his birthday suit he popped through the door into a room full of stenographers, and hurried right out again. Then he discovered the sign: "Do not enter this door if undressed."

Although vitamins do not belong to the chemical group of amines, the name has been officially retained.

Tag Day for T.B. Veterans

Tuberculous Veterans' branch of the Canadian Legion recently held a joint meeting of representatives from the ladies' auxiliary and men's branch for the purpose of dealing with plans for the T.V.A. tag day to be held on Saturday next. The affair will be convened by the auxiliary with headquarters in the Sons of England Hall.

The chairman pointed out that this appeal is in aid of the association maintenance fund, and also to assist needy members whose pensions are inadequate, and who are unable to re-enlist for war service, or obtain employment suitable to their physical condition.

The meeting was reminded that the T.V.A. pledges the full extent of its services to veterans returning from the present conflict suffering from tuberculosis, heart, or other chest disabilities, and who need the helping hand of this association.

It was also mentioned that while the increased calls upon a generous public cannot be overlooked, the branch deeply appreciates the fact that its ability to care for less fortunate comrades is entirely due to a sympathetic understanding on the part of citizens who subscribe to the T.V.A. cause.

Barbed Wire Controlled

OTTAWA (CP)—Humble barbed wire, even though the war demand isn't so heavy nowadays as it was when trench warfare was in vogue, came under regulation today by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, with output restricted.

Up to now manufactured in four sizes for civilian consumption, barbed wire henceforth can be made in only one size for that

Vicarage Fire

CUMBERLAND—Fire of unknown origin partially destroyed the vicarage of Holy Trinity Anglican Church Friday midnight. The house was being got in readiness for the new vicar, Rev. Arthur Bischlager, who replaces Rev. E. Linfoot, now with the chaplain services at Vancouver Barracks.

How the fire started remained a mystery and an investigation into the circumstances is proceeding. The church, only a few feet away, was saved by the fire fighters. It is reported that only a small insurance was carried. Fireman Clive Banks received a badly cut wrist, necessitating several stitches.

WOOD-LATORNELL

Standard baskets of white ladioli and asters formed the background for the wedding Saturday evening at 7.30 in St. Mary's Church, between Helen Isabel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Latornell, Nelson, B.C., and Charles Albert Wood, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Wood, 1109 Kings Road. Ven. Archdeacon A. de L. Nunns performed the ceremony and Mr. F. T. C. Wickett played the wedding music.

In the absence of her father, Mr. S. R. L. Knott gave the bride away and she wore a redingote ensemble of Churchill blue with matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of Talsman roses. The bride's sister, Miss Doris Latornell, was the only attendant and wore a coral redingote ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage bouquet of carnations. Mr. Thomas Wood supported the groom.

A reception was held later at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where Mrs. Latornell received the guests in a navy blue sheer dress, assisted by Mrs. Wood, dressed in a navy blue redingote ensemble. Both wore corsage bouquets of pink carnations. A buffet supper was served from a table arranged with pastel shades of gladioli, asters and stocks.

The honeymoon will be spent up-island and Mr. and Mrs. Wood will make their home at 1702 Quadra Street. Out of town guests at the wedding included the bride's mother, Mrs. S. C. Latornell, Nelson; Miss Greta Curwen and Miss Enid Latornell, Nelson; Mrs. Lawrence Carswell, Calgary, and Sgt. Navigator Maurice Latornell, Edmonton.

PIDDINGTON-PARKES

Two well-known Esquimalt families were united by the marriage Saturday afternoon of Phyllis Maud, only daughter of Major and Mrs. A. S. Parkes, 645-Lampson Street, and Squadron Leader James Arthur Piddington, R.A.F., second son of Major and Mrs. A. G. Piddington, "Wychbury," Lampson Street, Esquimalt. Rev. R. C. Devenish performed the ceremony at 4 at St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Mr. Edgar Holloway being at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length dress of white sheer fashioned in long torso style, with gathered skirt, square neck, and wrist-length close-fitting sleeves. Her long filmy veil fell from a circlet of flowers, and as her only ornament she wore a single strand necklace of pearls. Ophelia roses, pink carnations, white gladioli and white heather composed the bridal bouquet.

Sisters of the bridegroom acted as attendants. As bridesmaid Miss Sylvia Piddington wore a long dress of blue sheer, with a wreath of flowers in her hair, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, carnations and gladioli. The flower girl, Miss Helen Piddington, wore a white frock with blue sash and tulle hat, and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and white flowers. The best man was Flt. Lieut. Doctor's Daughter Becomes Bride of Well-known Officer

Against the pristine beauty of an all-white floral setting, the wedding of Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Bryant, Linden Avenue, to Captain Carron Baker Jameson, Canadian Dental Corps, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Carron B. Jameson, St. Ann Street, Oak Bay, drew a large congregation to St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, Saturday evening. White gladioli and white asters were arranged on the altar, with standards of the white asters and great spikes of the gladioli lining the chancel rails and choir stalls, while sprays of white asters tied with tulle marked the guest pews.

To the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," played by Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, the bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was a girlish picture in her lovely wedding gown of white net, made in bouffant redingote style opening over white taffeta. The net was applied with lace on the front of the skirt, at the waist and on the shoulders of the brief sleeves, and the bodice finished with a sweetheart neckline, while the very full net skirt extended into a train. She wore a veil of white tulle trimmed with heirloom Carrickmacross lace, the same lovely old lace edging the tiny turnback of the cap. Her all-white bouquet was composed of gardenias and bebe gladioli, showered with swainssona.

FOUR ATTENDANTS

Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns performed the ceremony. In attendance on the bride were Miss Eileen Macdonald as maid of honor and the Misses Jean Sinclair, Jacqueline Banks, of Chapman Camp, B.C., and Marjorie Lindgren were bridesmaids. They all wore charming gowns fashioned alike of net over taffeta, similar to that of the bride, the bouffant redingote edged all round with tiny pleating of the net, bracelet sleeves, sweetheart neckline and buttoned down the back. Miss Macdonald was in primrose yellow and the bridesmaids in heavenly blue. Their poke bonnets of the taffeta and net were tied beneath the chin with matching streamers, and they carried colonial bouquets of roses, asters and bebe gladioli in the pastel tones.

Captain Clifford Billingsley, D.C.C., of Vancouver, was groomsmen, and Messrs. John Jameson, Vancouver; Geoffrey Robbins, Chris McRae and Lieut. Bob Davis, D.C.C., acted as ushers.

AT BEACH HOTEL

After the ceremony over 200 guests were welcomed at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where standard baskets of Picardy gladioli and mauve white and pink asters banked the fireplace and adorned the lounge. Mrs. Bryant received the guests in a handsome floor-length gown of powder blue and silver lame, with little jacket, and a tiny model hat of the lame crowned with petunias and blue flowers, and a fringe of betunia veiling. She was assisted by Mrs. Carron B. Jameson Sr., who was gowned in Como rose lace in floor-length, with jacket, and a wide-brimmed hat of toast straw, trimmed with blue and rose French flowers. Both wore corsage bouquets of gladioli and delphinium to match their gowns.

As the bride cut the three-tiered wedding cake, the toast to her health and happiness was proposed by Dr. M. J. Keys. Out-of-town guests at the wedding included the bride's aunt, Mrs. H. F. Schoonover, Seattle; the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sutherland of Vancouver; Mrs. Clinton Fleetwood and Miss Catherine Fleetwood, Seattle, and Dr. and Mrs. Truett of Gig Harbor, Wash.

For the mainland honeymoon the bride donned an imported three-piece suit of blue tweed, with wide-brimmed hat of blue felt and tan accessories. Capt. and Mrs. Jameson will make their home in Victoria for the present.

gladioli, stocks and carnations were also presented to the mother of the bride and groom-elect's mother and grandmother. The many useful gifts were wheeled in by Miss Beverley Michell in a miniature van. Games were enjoyed, the winners being Mesdames Lennax, Campbell, Burrows, McMillan and the Misses L. Willey and I. Kearney. A buffet supper was served by the hostesses from a lace-covered table centred by a bowl of gladioli. Other invited guests were Mesdames F. Bland, A. Edmonds, F. Willey, E. Willey, W. Mrs. Churchill Inspiration to Britishers

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Staff Writer
LONDON — The Queen is the chief feminine inspiration of the Empire in these trying days of war, and that is as it should be. But second only to the Queen in influence and in popularity is a woman who seldom appears in the news: Mrs. Churchill.

"She's a queen among wives." That's the regal accolade of a businessman usually as devoid of sentiment as a sergeant-major. "She bucks us up just like the King and Queen do." So said a woman caught in a crush of people who turned out to see the Churchills in London.

HIS TRIBUTE

Mr. Churchill himself has made his own high tribute to the woman who has shared his life for 34 years.

"My marriage was much the most fortunate and joyous event which happened to me in the whole of my life," he wrote, "for what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought."

Mrs. Churchill contents herself with a supporting role, the part of a counsellor in the wings of the world's stage which the Prime Minister treads, but her conduct is patterned to one paramount fact: She is with her husband all the way, all the time.

In Parliament, when Mr. Churchill rises to speak, whether it be to quell criticism or to bring good news of the fight, he turns first to his wife. And from her place in the gallery, she responds with a soft and personalized gesture, letting him know that there, as elsewhere, they are together.

Moslem Leader Objects To Peace With Gandhi

By PRESTON GROVER

BOMBAY (AP)—The leader of India's 80,000,000 Moslems, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, declared Sunday that if the British government, in seeking peace with the Hindu-dominated All-India Congress Party, sacrificed the Moslems' interests he would end his "co-operation."

"We have gone far enough," said Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem League which has remained aloof from Gandhi's passive resistance campaign for immediate Indian independence.

"If the British now seek peace with the congress, we would consider that a betrayal of the Moslems who have been holding out a helping hand to Britain," he added.

Asked if he would tell the Moslems to "go to it" and resist any Hindu government Britain might possibly set up, he declared:

"I would do it even if the British shot me down. I would do it even if it meant my death. All I would have to do would be to give the word to my 80,000,000 followers."

MINORITY

The Moslems, a minority in the Indian population, have contributed a strongly disproportionate percentage to the army of more than 1,000,000 guarding against expected attack by the Japanese in Burma.

Jinnah's remarks were made at a press conference in response to questions suggested by the possibility that the government might negotiate with the virtually outlawed Congress Party leaders, notwithstanding that they are jailed or in custody.

Jinnah described his position thus: As head of the Moslem League, he had offered at the outbreak of the war to co-operate with the British government. He has repeatedly given the same assurance. But the Congress Party, composed mostly of Hindu political elements although it has a minority of Moslem representation, consistently has held back, he said.

Consequently British authorities have been continually placating the Hindus with greater and greater offers of a share in the government. Each concession, he said, held greater possibilities of harm to the Moslem population.

Jinnah declared that the Moslem League, because it early had agreed to co-operate in the war effort, had been shunted aside repeatedly.

"The British repeatedly have said they would consider no agreement with Indians that did not hinge on the All-India Congress," he said. "If the Congress should be installed in power, it would be the end of the Moslems in India."

Jinnah has said repeatedly, and he repeated Sunday, that he would be glad to form a provisional government.

"Naturally it would be necessary to obtain the support of all groups, including the Congress," he said.

His meeting with his working committee suggested that he, too, might be considering action like that of Gandhi, which might also land him in confinement.

Evidence was developing also that the deadlock between the British government and Indian nationalists might soon be broken through the intervention of at least one and possibly another prominent Indian.

As reports circulated that British authorities might apply severe penalties, including death and collecting fines, to halt rioting and destruction by followers of Gandhi, word came from the city of Trichinopoly that Chakravati Rajagopalachari, one-time prominent All-India Congress figure, was going to New Delhi, probably on political business.

At the same time it was reported from Allahabad that Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, India's most prominent lawyer and sometime negotiator between the government and Gandhi, also was heading for New Delhi and would visit Lord Linlithgow, the Viceroy. There was no intimation that the government had requested either Rajagopalachari or Sapru to confer on the chance of working out an agreement that would end the rioting, but observers could not overlook the fact that Rajagopalachari broke with the Congress last spring to carry on a campaign to settle Hindu-Moslem communal differences by compromise so that negotiations could be opened with the government.

Nor was it overlooked that Sapru was perhaps the only truly prominent Indian who had the confidence of both Gandhi and his followers and of the Viceroy.

In 1931 he acted as a go-between to bring Gandhi and the government together to end the civil disobedience campaign that year and to pave the way for the second round-table conference in London.

The death Saturday of Mahadev Desai, Gandhi's personal secretary and confidant, has created a new problem. Gandhi was permitted to be present at the cremation in accordance with his wishes.

Desai died of heart trouble during his confinement with Gandhi in the Aga Khan's palace near Poona. The death increased the possibility that Gandhi might undertake a fast, perhaps a brief mourning fast. Desai, incidentally, was one of the principal influences against Gandhi fasts, deploring their effect on the leader's health.

As the first week of trouble ended the Bombay area was quiet but things grew hotter in Madras and Calcutta.

Total arrests throughout the country have run into the thousands. At the peak of the 1930 trouble there were 25,000 in jail and detention camps. Nothing near that figure has been reached yet but gangs are being seized, 20 and more at a time.

Calcutta police opened fire with revolvers three times Saturday to disperse rowdy elements and several persons were taken to hospitals. At Gorakhpur one person was killed and 12 injured when police fired on a mob. Five persons were killed and four wounded at Decca when police used their firearms.

RESUME DISCUSSIONS
LONDON (CP)—Arthur Greenwood, former minister without portfolio in the Churchill cabinet, urged today in the name of the British Labor Party that the British government make clear it would resume self-government discussions with Indian leaders upon abandonment of the civil disobedience campaign by the All-India Congress Party.

In a BBC broadcast, Mr. Greenwood said that Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of the campaign in India and now under arrest, is "utterly oblivious to the urgency and gravity of the world situation."

However, he asked on behalf of the Labor Party that the government "make it clear that on abandonment of civil disobedience it would be ready to resume free and friendly discussions with a view of safeguarding and implementing the principles of self-government already proclaimed."

Mr. Greenwood said the "world does not expect that President Roosevelt's four freedoms and the wide declarations contained in the Atlantic Charter can be implemented until we begin to reap the fruits of victory. There can be no future even for nonbelligerents apart from a victory for the Allies."

He concluded his broadcast with a plea that "all who live for the ultimate and complete victory of the forces of freedom will use their influence to secure India's effective co-operation in mankind's great struggle against the forces of evil, on the basis that freedom won for the world will mean freedom won for the Indian peoples."

He concluded his broadcast with a plea that "all who live for the ultimate and complete victory of the forces of freedom will use their influence to secure India's effective co-operation in mankind's great struggle against the forces of evil, on the basis that freedom won for the world will mean freedom won for the Indian peoples."

Mitchell Thanks 'Dollar-a-Year' Men

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell has expressed formal appreciation of executives who are giving their services to the government as "dollar a year" men.

"There is too much cheap talk going around the country about dollar a year men," Mr. Mitchell said in making a presentation to E. R. Complin, former chief executive of the National War Labor Board who now has returned to his peacetime position with Canadian Industries Ltd.

Mr. Complin, the minister said, was an example of men in executive positions who have come to Ottawa at considerable disadvantage to themselves and assumed great responsibilities and heavy duties which meant sacrifice of most of their leisure time to aid the government in the war effort.

Mr. Mitchell made particular reference to Elliott M. Little, national selective service director, who, he said, had taken on very heavy duties and had refused even to accept any payment to ward his expense.

The minister placed in the dollar-a-year class the representatives of organized labor who are serving on regional and national war labor boards, without any advantage to themselves, in administering war labor policies.

3 Vancouver Deaths
VANCOUVER (CP)—A week-end death toll of three in the Vancouver area was reported today by police, who listed a 64-year-old woman and a seven-year-old boy as victims of traffic accidents, and a man as drowned.

Mrs. J. S. Ross died Sunday, shortly after being struck by an interurban tram, while Richard Waite, seven, died in hospital Sunday night, 36 hours after being hit by an automobile. Evander MacDonald was drowned at nearby Gower Point late Saturday, when he fell from a boat.

SMASHING triumph Friday night of Western Prince in the annual British Columbia Futurity, brings back to mind the fact that in 1930 E. J. (Babe) Harris of this city captured the first running of the two-year-old stake with his speedy filly, Princess Betty. That first running of the stake on July 30 at the mile Lansdowne track witnessed 12 starters and the pre-race rivalry among the various owners was particularly keen.

Princess Betty was ridden by Jockey Johnny Craigmyre, noted Victoria hardboot, who recently announced his retirement following his great ride on Maginot Line in the Canadian Derby at Winnipeg. Princess Betty, running as an entry with Princess Sally, ran the five and one-half furlongs in 1:08, with Evelyn May second and Verna Loan third. An interesting feature is that Evelyn May's jockey was Johnny Longden who has since established himself as one of the greatest riders of all time. Looking over the records we note that Princess Betty was a hot favorite as the mutual prices were $3.85, $2.75 and $2.55. Evelyn May paid $3.60 and $2.95 and Verna Loan $3.05.

Harris, along with A. C. Smith who won the Futurity in 1933 with his well-known Goldstream, holds the distinction of being the only owner on the island to capture the Futurity. Frank Behan of Nanaimo, owner of the prominent Emerald Stock Farm, has yet to saddle a Futurity winner, the closest he ever came being in 1932 when his Belt o' Gold ran second to Rascum.

Local racing fans cut loose with a loud squawk Friday night when they were robbed of listening to a broadcast of the actual running of the Futurity. It was advertised to come over one of the Vancouver stations only to be crowded off by a news program. The race broadcast started, then went off the air with the horses in the paddock. True, the broadcast returned later and a transcription of the running of the race was given. But the race followers expressed the opinion that British Columbia's feature stake was important enough to have been put over the air at the time of running.

That defeat in the fifth and final game of the senior softball playoffs must have been a bitter pill for the Navy to swallow. After dominating league play all season with a great string of victories the bluejackets saw the championship pass into the hands of the Barons. The setback was the more bitter owing to the fact that a number of the Barons are members of the army. There is nothing rankles the Navy more than to take a back seat to the other services on the field of sport. The Barons now tackle the winners of the service league at Patricia Bay in the lower island final. From all reports the Pat Bay representatives will provide plenty of competition for the city league winners.

Open Baseball Finals

Turn Back Oaks 17-14

Experience and extra pounds gave a revamped United Services lacrosse team a narrow 17 to 14 win over Oaks, Saturday night, and thus a one-game lead in the semifinals for the city championship. It was the first game of a best-of-five series, the winner to meet Bay-Douglas Tire in the final. Next game is Tuesday at 8.30 at the Sports Centre.

The battle was another fast and rough exhibition, just like the two games before it, and showed plenty of good lacrosse. The Servicemen bobbed up with two more Easterners, Tony Worsencroft and Nils Chambers, who, were told, played senior lacrosse back in Owen Sound and Orillia. They were big boys and proved they knew their way around a lacrosse box.

Services started off quickly and coupled with some sloppiness on the part of Oaks around their own goal, took a 5 to 2 lead in the first quarter. They increased the lead to 9 to 3 in the first 10 minutes of the second quarter. Just before time, Alan Rhodes, Oaks' hero of a couple of games ago in their only win over the Services, slipped in a couple to leave the score at 9 to 5 at the half.

ANOTHER FIGHT

The fun really began in the third period. Services had boosted their lead to 12 to 6 when the best miniature war of the season flared up. Jimmy McKeachie and Archie Dixon ended some holding tactics at the centre floor by swinging into a full-fledged razzle-dazzle. While coddling and rolling about, that bad boy of another game, Oaks' T. Druce, howl into view, bent on getting a crack at someone. Jack Williams sensed this and grabbed Druce from behind to keep him out of trouble. So the upshot of the whole thing was that Oaks' big and rotund defenceman, Billy Michelin, decided to strike a blow for democracy or some such thing and piled into Williams. They both went down, Williams on top. He just sat on Bill until everything simmered down. McKeachie and Dixon got 10 minutes each, the other pair 5 minutes each.

FAIL TO CLOSE GAP

They went into the last quarter and again pitted their speed against the Servicemen's experience but could not close that three-goal gap. They got the dying moments when Duff McGeaghey slammed home a screen shot, but old man Arthur Chapman made it 17 to 14 as he stood there all by himself and made goalie Bill Andrews make the first move.

Services' three most spectacular players were their high scorers. Jack Williams played a crafty game and made four goals good for three goals. Art Mayo conclusively proved himself an able substitution for Jackie James as the goal mouth terror. Also scoring three, while Kenny Featherstone showed some ball ragging deluxe when the occasion demanded and scored three goals on his suicide runs down the floor.

Mike Cunningham and Alan Rhodes topped the losers with three goals each, all hard and long shots. Services' goalie, Louis Moro, picked off the close-in shots like apples off a tree.

Services were playing without Earl McDonald, in the hospital with a poisoned leg, and Jackie James, who has been drafted to Vancouver. Oaks were without Darrell Popham, recovering from a sprained ankle, and Wally Williams who is leaving the city.

Both goalies played steady games, their total being cut just about 50-50. Moro stopped 29 shots, Bill Andrews, 27.

Lavengro Sprint Champ

SEATTLE (AP)—Lavengro won the sprint championship of the Pacific coast Sunday, defeating Sir Winsome in a special six-furlong match race at Longacres for a $2,000 purse. There was no wagering in the $2 mutuels on the two-horse event.

Lavengro, carrying 115 pounds and the colors of the Elitae Stables, Seattle, took the lead at once and won by two and a half lengths without ever being extended. Sir Winsome, owned by Haskell and Smith of Los Angeles, was in five pounds lighter.

My Universe won the featured mile and a sixteenth handicap for a $1,205 purse, and paid its backers $48.70, $11.40 and $6 in the $2 mutuels. Valinda Eterno was second, paying $3.60 and $3.20. Profile showed for $5.40.

B.C. Boy Star Of Army Meet

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—Cpl. G. Bortolussi of Powell River, B.C., led the Roughriders of Maj. Gen. E. W. Sanson's armored division to the track and field championship of the Canadian Overseas Army Saturday by winning both sprint events.

In the annual games, contested before a roaring crowd of soldiers that included Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, army corps commander, the British Columbia sprinter won the 100-yard dash in 10.8 seconds, and the 200 yards in 23.5.

With these 10 points to start with, the armored division athletes piled up a total of 33 points to win easily. The division placing second had 19 points, and two other divisions were tied at 13 points each. Corps and army units gathered 11 reinforcement units 9 and the R.C.A.F. 1.

Prizes were presented by Lt. Gen. Crerar and Mrs. A. G. L. McNaughton, wife of the army commander, and the fleet Bortolussi got the biggest cheer when he was presented with the Turner trophy as leading point-winner. The trophy was presented by Maj. Gen. G. R. Turner.

ANOTHER HERO

Driver R. Maybe of Calgary was another hero. Fifty yards from the finish in the mile, Maybe was in third place. He uncorked a smashing drive that brought him home first in 4 minutes, 37.6 seconds ahead of L. W. Brooks of Montreal and Cpl. D. R. Cameron of Sudbury, Ont.

His only failure was in the 880-yard run, where he finished second, behind Lt. Cpl. A. C. S. Williams of Winnipeg, who ran the half in 2:02.

An unusual finish brought home Cpl. F. N. Bryant of Jasper, Alta., and Sgt. G. Elliot of Hamilton, Ont., in a dead heat for first in the three-mile run. The time was 15:37.7.

Winnipeg Stars Swim Champions

WINNIPEG BEACH, Man. (CP)—Kay Gordon and Douglas Nothstein, 18, both of Winnipeg, won the western Canada Wrigley mile swim championships here Saturday.

Nothstein finished the men's event just a stroke ahead of Norm Allish of Edmonton in a thrilling race in which both were neck-and-neck during the last half. Allish overcame Nothstein's half-length lead near the end and the Manitoba champion's final sprint enabled him to finish in front. Nothstein was clocked at 27:59.45 and Allish at 28 minutes.

Maurice Copan of Saskatoon and Walter Scott of Winnipeg finished almost together in another duel in which Copan won third place in 29:42.45 and Scott fourth in 29:43.

Miss Gordon negotiated the mile more than two seconds faster than a week ago when she won the Manitoba mile event. Her time was 29:21.

She took the lead from the start, never was headed, and finished more than 200 yards ahead of Margaret Taggart of Winnipeg. Ella McGregor of Winnipeg was third and Doreen Edmiston of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan champion, was last of the six competitors to cross the finish line.

Ruth Will Return To Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP)—Babe Ruth is coming back to Yankee Stadium Sunday.

The great slugger, who played his last game as a Yankee in 1934 and then wound up his career with Boston Braves, has agreed to give a batting exhibition, before the doubleheader scheduled between the Yankees and Washington Senators for the benefit of United States army and navy relief funds.

It is planned the Bambino will knock a few fungoes to warm up and then will waddle to the plate and attempt to park one in the right field bleachers—long known as "Ruthville."

WINS GOLF COMPETITION

Finishing with a total point score of 75, Syd Jenkins won the tin whistle competition at the Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday. G. Petticrew was runner-up with 66 points and Jack Caddell third with 65.

SENT DOWN RIVER

BROOKLYN (AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers reduced their squad of active players to 23 Saturday by sending Schoolboy Rowe, veteran pitcher, and Babe Dahlgren, first baseman, to Montreal of the International League under option. Either player may be recalled on 24 hours' notice.

Nibble Nibbles

Nibble Hanover, holder of the world record for the fastest heat ever trotted—1:58.4, lives up to his name with a little impromptu nibbling at Good Time Park, Goshen, N.Y.

World Series Plans

Many Ideas Advanced

NEW YORK — Well, what would you have them do with the world series money? And while we're being quizzical about it, what would you have them do with the world series?

Even the cigar store Indians have ideas as to how the series, which we will nickname the October classic, should be conducted in this crucial year, and where the proceeds should go, with the general impression being that something unusual should be done.

Here are just a few of the suggestions:

1. The series should be started at the home parks of the rival clubs, and then be taken on tour, being set up like a circus tent for one-night stands over the country.

2. It should be completed at the home parks, and the two teams sent out for a series of exhibitions at army camps.

3. The whole series should be played at army camps.

4. The league's share of the proceeds should be donated to service charities.

5. The players' share of the proceeds should be donated to service charities.

6. All the proceeds should be donated to service charities.

The last three items demonstrate clearly how easy it is to tell the other fellow what to do with his money, and place the proponents in the class of touts who convincingly tell you to slap $2 on the nose of "Neverwin" in the fifth. All he wants to be sure of it that it is your money.

Naturally the players themselves have not been heard from concerning either the conduct of the series, or the disposition of the money, but it would not be difficult to give their opinion accurately by proxy, without consulting them. They would favor a series of no more than seven games, so they could get an early start on their fall hunting trips, and the usual distribution of the money at least their share of the money.

GOOD IDEA

The idea of a portage world series is good, although naturally there are problems involved, particularly if the first three or four games were played on the home fields. If one team won them all, it probably would mean the road trip would be short lived, unless the teams continued play on an exhibition basis.

As for the clubs touring the country for the sole purpose of raising money for charity, it would put baseball in the position of being tolerated simply because of its value for that purpose. If, as we are led to believe, baseball is permitted to proceed solely on its value as a sport and its good influence on morale, it would not seem necessary that it be required to reduce itself to a simple money-raising medium to survive.

If it is approved purely from a sports and morale angle, it would survive whether or not it raised a cent for charity. This does not mean that it shouldn't try to raise funds, as the more it can raise the better. But in theory it shouldn't be necessary.

The question of turning all the series profits over to charity also offers its problems. Baseball is a business, and what other businesses are being asked to donate their profits? The players are, theoretically at least, working overtime. Are other workers giving away their overtime wages? They want time and a half.

Talbert Takes Newport Tennis

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Seed Bill Talbert of Cincinnati won the Newport Casino tennis tournament Sunday, defeating top-ranked Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6.

Talbert and Schroeder then teamed to win the doubles title with a straight-set victory over George Ball of El Paso, Tex., and Richard Odman of Seattle, 11-9, 6-4, 6-4.

For the second consecutive year, Schroeder, who teamed with Jack Cramer of Los Angeles to take last year's doubles crown, finished second best in singles play. He lost in the 1941 finals to Don McNeill, who did not defend his title this time.

Five C's Albions In Cricket Wins

Five C's and Albions came through with wins in Saturday's Victoria and District Cricket League matches, the results leaving the churchmen in second place and the Albions in fourth spot.

Five C's, on the strength of the brilliant batting of Naylor, an R.A.F. cricketer from Pat Bay, defeated the Army, 128 to 88. Naylor, who scored 83 runs, the largest single total of the season, made a brilliant stand at the wickets before being bowled out. On the strength of his batting the churchmen had 90 runs for the first four wickets. Clarke, Army bowler, held the rest of the team to only small totals, Comley's 11 the only other double-figure score.

Army runs were well distributed, every man but two posting some sort of score. Smith with 27, Weston with 15, not out, and Allwood with 12, led their batters.

In the other game Albions defeated Navy, 118 to 81, in a free-batting contest. Seager with 41 runs and Freeman with 31 led the winning eleven's drive. Machan put on a fine 40 and Johnson 15, not out, to lead the Navy batters.

Tuesday, Aug. 25, R.A.F. cricketers from North Battleford, Sask., will meet the R.A.F. eleven from Patricia Bay in an all-day match at Macdonald Park. Play will start at 10 in the morning with intervals for luncheon and afternoon tea. Members of the two teams will be dined at Terry's in the evening, the event being arranged by the hospitality committee of the R.A.F. at Patricia Bay and the Victoria and District Cricket Association.

Trotting Champion

GOSHEN, N.Y. (CP)—His Excellency, runner up to Bill Gallon in the 1941 Hambletonian, won the grand circuit trotting Derby Saturday.

His Excellency took the first heat, lost the second to Nibble Hanover and then came back to do the final heat in 2:02.4, the fastest trotting time of the meeting.

The winner is owned by William Stinger of Brooklyn, and is a half brother of The Ambassador, which won the 1942 Hambletonian Wednesday. He was driven by Tom Berry.

Boston Braves Star Turns On Brooklyn

After what happened to their pitchers in last month's All Star game, the National League master minds should be giving themselves a good mental kicking every time they read Al Javery's name in a box score these days.

The Boston Braves' string bean is about the hottest pitching proposition in either league. On his present form, Al would have been a real ornament to the Nationals' all-star line-up.

When he blanked the Brooklyn Dodgers 2 to 0 in seven innings Sunday, setting the league leaders down with a single hit, Javery completed his 19th consecutive inning without having allowed a run. In his last four games, in which he has defeated Brooklyn twice and Cincinnati and New York once each, the young man from Auburn, Mass., has given up exactly one run. Five of his 10 victories this year have been shutouts, which is all pitching for a seventh place outfit.

The decisive setback at Javery's hands did not exactly place the Dodgers leadership in jeopardy, but taken in conjunction with The St. Louis Cardinals' double victory over Cincinnati, 10 to 5 and 6 to 3, it breathed a little life into the National League race. The Cards were back within eight games of the top today.

CUBS WIN FAIR

After absorbing a double licking the previous day, Chicago Cubs came back behind some tight pitching by Bill Lee and Les Fleming to hand Pittsburgh the same does, 5 to 1 and 4 to 1. Fleming allowed only two hits in the second. Bill Nicholson of the Cubs slammed his fifth homer in three days.

Mel Ott's Giants tightened their hold on third place in the National by trimming the Phils 6 to 5 and sweeping the four-game series.

The Boston Red Sox took a firmer grip on second place in the American League as they swept their second doubleheader with Washington in as many days, 6 to 4 and 10 to 3. They held a three-game lead over Cleveland today.

Home runs by Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon, each with a mate on base, paced the Yankees to an 11 to 2 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in a six-inning affair at Shibe Park. After the game Tommy Henrich, Yankee right-fielder, left the team temporarily and headed for Cleveland to take a physical examination for enlistment in the coastguard.

COAST LEAGUE

The sluggers may fatten their batting averages with 19 hits, but a game still can be a pitcher's duel if the mounsmen have 13 innings in which to scattered the blows.

That was the way it was yesterday when Seattle's Hal Turpin served up nine hits but won a 2 to 1 victory over league-leading Los Angeles' Ken Raffenberg. It was Turpin's 18th win of the current Coast League baseball season.

Jo Jo White scored the winning run on Dick Gyselman's single with one away. White, incidentally, made Seattle's other score.

The seven-inning nightcap also was a pitcher's battle, but the hurler who gave the most hits won—Los Angeles counting 2 to 0 on Paul Gehrman's five hitter. Carl Fischer allowed only three earned blows but his Seattle teammates made as many errors.

Portland was the only team to win a series—ending the week with a 3 to 2 advantage over San Francisco. But the reviving Beavers still were 32 games out of first place, a gain of only half a contest over last week.

San Diego held even with Oakland by taking most of the weekend games, winning Saturday 5 to 1 and Sunday's nightcap 1 to 0—the latter on an error and successive hits by John Hill and Mel Mazzera. Oakland won Sunday's opener 1 to 0.

Second-place Sacramento doggedly kept pace with the Angels by splitting Sunday's doubleheader with Hollywood and winning Saturday's contest 13 to 2.

STARS REUNITED IN 'FLEET'S IN'

Two of the stars of "Caught in the Draft," highly successful comedy of last season, are reunited in "The Fleet's In," new Paramount comedy with music due today at the Cadet Theatre. They are Dorothy Lamour, who played the role of the Colonel's daughter, and Eddie Bracken, who was Bob Hope's rookie pal in the army. In "The Fleet's In," Dotty is cast as star entertainer in a swing rendezvous, and Bracken plays the part of a wacky gob, whose best friend is co-star William Holden.

LAUGHS APLENTY IN STURGES HIT

Another welcome addition to the growing list of Preston Sturges laugh hits turned up today when "Sullivan's Travels," the new Paramount comedy starring Joel McCrea and Veronica Lake, opened at the Atlas Theatre. Written and directed by Sturges, it shows all the earmarks of comedy that distinguished his three previous hilarious hits. These were "The Great McGinty," "Christmas in July" and "The Lady Eve."

Sturges writes his stuff with the sole aim of entertaining people—not to bring people uplifting messages. Nevertheless in "Sullivan's Travels" he shows us all the precious need for laughter in this world.

'RISE AND SHINE' SMASH MUSICAL

It was a mad, musical comedy that was shown at the Rio Theatre today, where the audience could not stop laughing at Mark Hellinger's "Rise and Shine." It has songs, dances, girls and laughs in just the right proportion to make a smash musical hit. "Rise and Shine" has one of the grandest casts ever packed into one big musical film. It has Jack Oakie as Chowderhead, George Murphy as the guy who rescues romance from the rumpus, Walter Brennan as a grandpa who still appreciates a finely turned ankle, Linda Darnell as the loveliest lovely that ever walked across a campus, and Milton Berle as the horse-laughing "Seabiscuit."

Shut-Out Winner By Four Lengths

SARATOGA, N.Y. (AP) — There was so little competition in the 73rd running of the ancient Travers stakes Saturday that Shut Out probably could have run backwards and still won. As it was, the winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Belmont and the Arlington classic—chief claimant to the throne of the three-year-olds—told 130 pounds, the heaviest load of his career, and waited in by four lengths before a crowd of 14,998, biggest of the Saratoga meeting to date. William Woodward's Trierarch was second, six lengths in front of William Dupont's Star Beacon, while Buckskin, Shut Out's sidekick from Mrs. Payne Whitney's barn, retired early after setting the pace for a while, and wound up last in the field of four.

BEN HOGAN WINS

THRILLS, SUSPENSE IN 'MAN HUNT'

If you're looking for an adventure film, chock-full of thrills and suspense, take in "Man Hunt," the new 20th Century-Fox hit at the York Theatre. Boasting a strong cast headed by stars—Walter Pidgeon and Joan Bennett, the picture based on the novel "Rogue Male" by Geoffrey Household, packs a terrific wallop. It is the most thrilling "chase" picture ever produced and every inch of film is fraught with gripping drama.

The theme is well-chosen, timely and admirably worked out, and the pacing is so expert that one is not conscious of time as big-game hunter Walter Pidgeon goes through the most harrowing experience of his varied screen career. He's the quarry of a relentless hunter staged by George Sanders, who is tops as the menacing hunter.

Joan Bennett, as a cockney-speaking girl "out of the shadows," turns in one of the best performances she's ever done.

MARCHING SONG FILM FEATURE

A great new crop of song writers will come out of Uncle Sam's new army, judging from the action of Universal studio in buying a brilliant marching song, "Six Jerks in a Jeep," from Pte. Sid Robin of Fort Hamilton, Calif.

The song is one of the top musical numbers in Universal's comedy musical, "Private Buckaroo," currently showing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres, and is sung by the Andrews Sisters and Joe E. Lewis, night club entertainer. Harry James' orchestra provides the accompaniment. "Six Jerks in a Jeep" made its debut as a top production number and was a sensation with the soldiers who heard it. Friends of Pte. Robin sent the song to Director Eddie Cline at Universal and, after hearing it, he immediately incorporated it into "Private Buckaroo" as the principal musical number.

'TAKE A LETTER' GIVES NEW TWIST

The secretary-boss relationship has been furnishing plenty of romantic fuel for books, plays and pictures these past years, and if you've gotten a little tired of the pattern, take heart. Something definitely new and hilarious will be added by Paramount. It will be seen in the Rosalind Russell-Fred MacMurray comedy romance, "Take a Letter, Darling," produced and directed by Mitchell Leisen, which is currently at the Capitol Theatre. Here is a movie that does a complete right-about-face in that Rosalind Russell is the boss and Fred MacMurray her secretary.

Contributing to the liveliness of the proceedings, in addition to the two principals, are Macdonald Carey, leading man to Gertrude Lawrence in Broadway's "Lady in the Dark," who makes his movie bow in "Take a Letter, Darling," Robert Benchley, Constantine Moore and Cecil Kellaway.

'TEN GENTLEMEN FROM WEST POINT'

A little known but thrilling story of West Point has been gloriously brought to the screen in 20th Century-Fox's action-packed adventure film, "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," which opens tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre. Starring George Montgomery, Maureen O'Hara and John Sutton, the film has a patriotic appeal.

SHARON BELL DUE HOME THIS WEEK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Gordon Bell hopes that her four-year-old daughter, Sharon, who was flown from Vancouver to Philadelphia to have a key-type can opener removed from her throat, will be back home by the end of this week.

Mrs. Bell believes her daughter was released from hospital at the week-end, and that she would be taken to Toronto by her father, Constable Gordon Bell of the Vancouver police department, to visit relatives before continuing home.

Nonessential Work to Stop

LAKE COUCHICHIING, Ont. (CP)—Immediate stoppage of every nonessential activity would yield barely enough manpower for Canada's war obligations, L. E. Westman, assistant to Elliott M. Little, National Selective Service director, said in an address Sunday before the Canadian Institute of Public Affairs.

Outlining the tightness of the present labor situation and the program being followed by Selective Service, Mr. Westman said the stage has been reached where workers are a "definite limiting factor" in production.

"The most difficult problem was to determine on any available evidence what the proper balance between our armed service and our civilian workers should be."

The United Nations as a whole had gone far in pooling their wealth. Armies, navies and air forces were being co-ordinated, but only incidentally had much progress been made in the overall allotment of worker duties.

"Generally, whether it was guns, tanks, aircraft, raw materials or food products, we undertook great tasks, and, as each grew, we exhausted our seemingly unfailing labor supplies until last spring it became evident that the whole Canadian economy must be transferred to the point of drastically disturbing the lives of our total civilian population," Mr. Westman said.

"The fullness of our national effort is concretely indicated by our labor shortage. Some day we may be able to co-ordinate the manpower of Russia, China, the United States and the British Commonwealth, but in the meantime those who have the tools to produce must not deceive themselves by statistics other than battles won."

UNEMPLOYMENT A CRIME
 "At least we are at the stage where there is no excuse for unemployment," he said. "To remain unemployed is a crime, whether the cause be due to lack of initiative in the individual or the state."

"At intervals, further tightening of control as the government policy will indicate, based on the very complex system of work requirements that we have established, must be anticipated," he said.

Canada had only begun to bring women into industry. "I anticipate that, during the next year, it will be necessary, if we are to keep all the balls in the air that we have thrown, to curtail many services, and do everything, and anything that we can that will give us a few more useful hours of essential labor," he said. "The necessary steps to this end are, in the main, self-evident."

"There should be only two kinds of work, essential and non-essential. The latter must be eliminated quickly."

Rangers Help Fire Fighters

Aided by members of the South Vancouver Island Militia Rangers, forestry fire fighters had reduced a blaze on the Sooke watershed to the "mopping up" stage today, according to word from the forestry office at noon.

The conflagration broke out Friday in the vicinity of the Sooke Road and Humpback Road junction and spread to cover approximately 100 acres. The territory affected was semialpine and previously burned over. No merchantable timber was lost.

The blaze was reported definitely under control today.

Crews varied in size. A total of 30 fire fighters were sent out by the forestry branch and 26 were furnished voluntarily by the Rangers, who worked throughout Friday night and over the weekend.

"The Rangers have considered themselves as useful to the forestry officials as to the military authorities and when we were fighting fire over the weekend we figured that was as important as actually engaging in conflict with the enemy," Charlie Burr, unit leader of the Rangers, said.

Local Kiwanians Attend Convention

Harold M. Diggon, and Walter Walker, members of the Victoria Kiwanis Club are in Yakima, Wash., representing the local club at the annual Pacific Northwest Kiwanis district convention, Washington, Oregon, part of Idaho and British Columbia will be included in the representation. There are more than 100 clubs in the district.

It was originally planned to hold a general convention in Vancouver, but wartime traveling restrictions caused officials to change to an executive representation meeting at Yakima.

This is the first time the Washington city has been host to any district convention. The two-day convention ends Tuesday, and reports from the local representatives will be presented to the Victoria club at a future meeting.

TOWN TOPICS

Oak Bay fire department extinguished a small blaze that broke out in a coal bin at the Beach Hotel Sunday morning at 9.50.

Fleetwood Kamann was fined $40 when he pleaded guilty in police court today to a charge of dangerous driving on Centre Road, Saturday evening.

M. Thompson reported to police at 3.05 this morning he had chased a prowler who attempted to jimmy a window in his house.

Sgt. Harry Mercer attended. "I'd rather go to work than to jail," said an old offender as Magistrate Henry Hall sentenced him to five days on a drunkenness charge in police court today.

Provincial Civil Service Pensioners will meet Thursday at 3 at 433 Fort Street to consider the reply of the B.C. government executive to their requests for a cost-of-living bonus.

Police have important information for Dr. A. M. Baird, late of Los Angeles, who is believed to be in Victoria or on the island. He is asked to contact Detective Inspector J. H. Rogers at the police station, Fisgard Street.

Charged with being drunk and causing a disturbance aboard the Ss. Princess Elizabeth, early Sunday morning, a seaman, William J. Steele, was given the option of paying $35 or serving six days, when he appeared in police court today.

At 8.45 today a car driven west on Johnson and turning south onto Government by W. E. Hawkins, Quarantine Station, William Head, was in a collision with an army truck driven east on Johnson by P. Peters. Only slight damage resulted.

More than $20 was reported stolen from Mrs. R. Malcolm, 366 Richmond Road, when her house was ransacked Saturday. Detective Henry Jarvis attended and found that entrance was made by jimmying the rear door. Police are today holding a suspect.

Temporary outside civic employees have petitioned the City Council requesting a week's holiday each year. The City Council finance committee is studying the plan. Although they are entitled to statutory holidays no provision is made for annual holidays for temporary staff.

A general warning was issued by the B.C. Forest Service this week for extreme caution with fire and general avoidance of the woods during the present season. Hikers and campers were urged to hold their picnics on beaches rather than in the woods to assist in fire control.

Japanese Jailed
VANCOUVER (CP)—Takeo Abe, Woodfibre Japanese, was sentenced to one month in jail by Magistrate H. S. Wood here today when convicted on a charge of violating an order of the British Columbia Security Commission forbidding persons of Japanese origin to fish anywhere in the Pacific coast area. Abe was arrested after he had been seen fishing from a rowboat in False Creek.

Ration Officers Pay Visit to City

High-ranking officials of the ration division, were visitors to Victoria Saturday, when they conferred with local officials of the board and inspected the organization established to administer the rationing laws.

Heading the party was O. W. Rodomar, assistant to the administrator of rationing, Ottawa, who said he was delighted with the smooth operation of the local rationing office.

In western Canada, he said both officials and citizens had accepted rationing better than in eastern centres.

Others in the party were E. J. Hargreaves, western director of the ration division, and O. H. Bell, ration officer for Vancouver.

Expect Gas Masks Soon for Civilians

The arrival soon of another large shipment of gas masks for distribution to the civilian population of Victoria is expected in A.R.P. circles following the arrival Saturday of a shipment of 2,825 masks which will be distributed this week to A.R.P. warden and auxiliary services.

The manufacture of the gas masks has been held up by certain vital materials but the token shipment suggests these materials are now available and it will not be long before gas masks will be available in quantity.

Questions of how to distribute the respirators to the public were discussed at the school for A.R.P. officers conducted in Vancouver last month. Those attending the school were under the impression that while the masks would be made available to A.R.P. workers without charge, the public will be required to pay $1.50 for each mask.

Exactly how the distribution will be effected when the masks are available in Victoria is not known here.

Wardens and A.R.P. workers who receive their masks gratis, will be required to sign for them, but the masks will remain the property of the Dominion government. Should a person now attached to the A.R.P. leave the service at a future date, he will be required to turn in his gas mask.

MUST BE FITTED
The masks come in three sizes, and each person receiving a mask must be fitted. The distribution of masks to A.R.P. decontamination squads will probably begin today.

The masks are of simple design and light to carry. Although basically the same as the civilian gas masks issued to the English, the facepiece of the Canadian-made masks is made of rubberized cotton rather than pure rubber. The head straps are adjustable, but not elastic.

The masks are guaranteed for eight hours' protection against ordinary concentrations of gases. They are much lighter than the military respirators, which are made to provide protection for 24 hours.

Coming in a cardboard box, the masks are not equipped with any strap to carry them by over the shoulder.

Survey Vacant Space In City Buildings

The business, trade and real-estate committee of the City Council will assist in conducting a survey of vacant industrial buildings in Victoria for the decontamination division, industry and subcontract branch of the Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

The purpose of the survey is to secure information of buildings which would be available for storage of war and other supplies should the need arise.

All persons or companies owning vacant building space are asked to communicate with Alderman B. J. Gadsden of the City Council business, trade and real-estate committee or with the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

A.R.P. Course Begins

A month-long course in all phases of A.R.P. work will open at 8 tonight at the Cloverdale School for about 20 Saanich A.R.P. officers. Capt. E. D. W. Levein, Saanich A.R.P. controller, and K. R. Genn, who recently returned from an instructors' course at University of B.C., will be lecturers.

Classes will meet every Monday for the present, although Capt. Levein said later classes may be called twice a week.

Sgt. Ray Woodburn, 23-year-old son of Detective and Mrs. Fearon Woodburn, 650 Langford Street, who is now at Helena, Mont., with the 1st Special Service Force, the Canadian-American special unit recently formed, Ray, who joined the P.P.C.L.I. after graduation from Victoria High School in 1937, returned to Canada from overseas two months ago as an instructor and then volunteered for a paratroop unit. Besides Victoria High, he attended Oaklands and Victoria West schools. He went overseas in November, 1939.

BEER PRICES UP TUESDAY

Victorians with other British Columbians are expected to start paying more for their wartime beer Tuesday, according to W. F. Kennedy, liquor commissioner.

The increase amounts to 10 cents per dozen pints and probably $3 per barrel of 25 gallons.

Details on how the new liquor board figures would be passed on to the public were not immediately available pending receipt of itemized instruction from Ottawa.

The rise in price is the result of the new-excite tax.

MONTREAL (CP)—Price of beer in Montreal was boosted 16 cents per dozen quarts and nine cents per dozen pints today.

Safe Crackers Get Big Haul at Ray's

Several thousand dollars were stolen by thieves who broke open the safe at Ray's store, 752 Fort Street, over the week-end. The exact amount, which could not be disclosed pending authorization from Vancouver, was the whole of a heavy Saturday business.

Constable Brooke Douglas reported the safe open at 11.27 Sunday night. Police found that the dial had been knocked off and the tumblers pushed back. A sledge hammer and punch were used to crack the safe.

Entrance was gained by a rear window that was jammed. Detective Fearon Woodburn, Sgt. Harry Mercer and Constables Richard Berry and Stanley Holmes attended.

C.W.A.C. Officer Seeks Recruits

Women as well as men are invited to visit the new army recruiting office at Douglas and Yates.

Daily from 9 to 9 officers of the C.W.A.C. and the army will be in attendance to interview applicants for enlistment and give them any information they desire.

Lieut. R. E. Hinks and Sgt. M. Kerley of the C.W.A.C. will attend the office all week and in addition an army recruiting sergeant will be present.

Work on the structure, which has attracted considerable attention from citizens during its construction, was completed this morning.

Dutch Sabotage

LONDON (CP)—Aneta, Netherlands' news agency, quoted a Soviet information bureau report from Moscow today that a heavily-laden German troop train ran into another train at a railway station near Groningen, the Netherlands, causing serious damage and suspended traffic on the line.

Five prominent Netherlands were executed by a Nazi firing squad Saturday as hostages after saboteurs whom the Germans blamed for a similar troop train wreck Aug. 7 were captured.

The Germans previously had said the lives of 1,600 hostages would be taken if the saboteurs were not given up by their countrymen, and there was a possibility that other executions might follow the first five.

Thirteen motorists were fined $2.50 each in police court today on parking charges. One was fined $5 for parking by a fire hydrant.

Back to School In Two Weeks

With school opening Sept. 1, little improvement was shown today in the teacher shortage situation in British Columbia, according to Dr. S. S. Willis, superintendent of education.

Present indications are that over 50 schools may remain closed through lack of teaching personnel. Last year 23 were without teachers. At that time students received tuition by correspondence. Similar provision is expected to be afforded this year for those classes without teachers.

Grade and high schools throughout the province will open on the first day of next month, an innovation this year. In previous years it has been the policy to extend vacation to the Tuesday after Labor Day. This year Labor Day falls on Sept. 7.

TO REMAIN OUT

In certain farming communities arrangements made prior to the end of last term relative to the release of student labor will continue. Under that plan those pupils who can furnish definite proof they are needed for agricultural labor, through the loss of men to the services and other essential industries, may secure permits to remain away from school during September and October.

In Victoria the school board has issued a statement advising parents to give full consideration to the eventualities which may arise from withdrawing their children from school for war work purposes. The advice has been given with due consideration to labor needs at the present time and is not intended to conflict in any way with the war effort.

Lagoon's Home Of Pilot Bell

Sgt. Pilot Ronald G. Bell, Victoria flier who made the headlines for his courageous work on the recent Duisburg raid, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Bell of Penderay Road, Esquimalt Lagoon.

Louis V. Hunter, in a news dispatch from London Friday, described Bell's work as "one of the most remarkable exploits in the recent history of the air force."

Member of an R.C.A.F. bomber squadron commanded by Wing-Commander John Twigg of Victoria, Bell went on to bomb his target after his ship had been riddled by fire from the Nazi fighter.

Bell, 25, left the University of British Columbia to join the R.C.A.F. two years ago, gained his wings at Claresholm, Alta., and proceeded overseas a year ago. He attended the Garneau High School at Edmonton before going to U.B.C.

A keen sportsman, he played rugby on the U.B.C. team and also won several swimming championships in Edmonton.

Ronald Bell has a younger brother, Jimmy, 22, serving in the Royal Air Force.

For four and a half years Jimmy was in the British Merchant Navy, for eight months served in the Atlantic convoy service and got his third mate's ticket in London before joining the R.A.F.

Ronald and Jimmy hadn't seen each other for five years until last winter when they met by chance in a sergeants' mess in England.

Check Mrs. Roosevelt

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said today in her syndicated column "My Day" that she had received a "stern letter" from the censorship board for commenting on the weather.

"The censor has written me a very stern letter about my remarks on the weather, and so from now on I shall not tell you whether it rains or whether the sun shines when I happen to be," she wrote. "I imagine it is permissible to mention whether it is hot or cold, and I can tell you with joy that it was cold enough on Saturday to take a walk in Washington with pleasure."

Fly Peace Kite

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Turkish journalists who returned from a conducted tour of parts of Germany and the Russian front, said they gained the impression that German leaders pin their hopes of winning the war on defeating Russia this year, or at least shattering organized Russian resistance.

The Germans then hope to make a compromise peace with the United States and England, they said.

Capt. I. St. Clair Celebrates Birthday

Capt. Ian St. Clair, former drill instructor at city schools, passed another milestone Saturday. Former students who make it a practice to visit him on his birthday called and presented him with a pipe and tobacco.

Capt. St. Clair was superannuated some years ago after doing a splendid job instructing in the grade schools of Victoria for over 25 years. In the early days of this century Capt. St. Clair taught hundreds of children to swim in a large floating swimming tank which he constructed in the inner harbor.

Capt. St. Clair, who has lost his sight and hearing, has learnt the Braille system and keeps well posted on world events. When asked by his callers to make a speech on Saturday he smiled and then in scholarly fashion imparted words of wisdom and hope.

Among the callers were Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gower, Jim Mann, Bob White, Tony Vigelus and Johnny Johnson.

Refreshments were served.

HOW TO RELIEVE

PILE TORTURE

QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For the purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Modern Pharmacy and Cunningham Drug Store—or any drugist—and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your drugist will gladly return your money.

Colossal Barrage

Convoy Protected By Wall of Flame

By ARTHUR A. THORPE
GIBRALTAR (AP)—Today I heard details of the terrific air attacks launched against the convoy of merchant ships on its way to succor gallant Malta.

Hundreds of Axis planes were flung into the fight to prevent the much-needed supplies and reinforcements from reaching the island. But only a small proportion sent their bombs and torpedoes at the great armada owing to the magnificent work of the fleet air arm fighter planes.

High-level bombers, torpedo planes and Stukas came out in huge formations from air bases in Sardinia and Sicily, but a cordon of constantly-circling fighters smashed up attack after attack and sent the bombers scurrying to their bases, their bombs exploding harmlessly in the sea many miles from the ships.

I was on the Eagle, a unit of one of the largest British warship forces ever to sail down the Mediterranean. Merchant ships plodded resolutely along over the blue sunlit waters of the Mediterranean.

Battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers and many destroyers enclosed them in outer and inner rings of hundreds of long and short range anti-aircraft guns, while the carriers' fighters roared around out of sight awaiting an enemy onslaught.

The Eagle was sunk when we were nearing the edge of the battle zone. Some of her fighters were in the air at the time and flew onto one of the other carriers.

The first air attack came five hours after the Eagle was sunk. An officer in a battleship which returned to Gibraltar told me that four Junkers 88s evaded fighters and dived on her ship. An intense barrage of shells jumped up at them spoiled their aim and their bombs exploded in the sea.

FORMATIONS SPLIT UP

"We knew that large formations were all around us," the officer said, "but the carriers' fighters were wonderful in splitting up enemy formations and driving them off."

"Axis planes never managed to reach us in really strong numbers. Wednesday about 9.30 a.m. 20 big twin-engine bombers carried out a high-level attack. They all dropped bombs. One fell very near a merchant ship. She was damaged and her engines stopped. (Soon afterward she started again.)

"Then we saw about a dozen torpedo bombers coming in on the starboard side close to the sea. We had a surprise for them which they showed no liking for. We put up a barrage with high explosive shells. I have never seen anything like it. Our shells were exploding in a huge wall of flame, smoke and flying splinters. The planes made no attempt to face such a colossal barrage. They turned away. We saw no torpedo tracks."

"Later 20 Stukas broke through and screamed down at the ships. One dived down at us. Tracer shells and pommoms were pumped at him in red streams. I could see pieces flying off the plane. But the pilot kept on and a big bomb plunged into the sea very near to us."

"A few minutes later seven dive-bombers appeared suddenly out of the blue and dive-bombed a carrier. They roared down one after another and she disappeared from our sight behind climbing spires of water. But she was still steaming along when she came into our view again."

Control Ships Over 150 Tons

Powers of the Canadian Shipping Board have been extended by order-in-council to restrict and control all voyages by British ships registered in Canada of over 150 tons gross, unless such vessels are classified by the Department of Fisheries as fishing vessels.

Announcement that this new order affecting the operation of vessels on the Canadian coasts would be effective Sept. 1 next, was made today by Gerald A. Yardley, collector of customs and excise.

The order provides that no British ship registered in Canada of over 150 tons gross shall proceed on any voyage except under the authority and in accordance with a license granted by the shipping board. Only exception will be fishing vessels classified as such by the Fisheries Department at Ottawa.

In the event of a ship attempting to proceed to sea in contravention of the regulation, the order-in-council states, the master and manager will be guilty of an offence against the Crown and the ship will be liable to seizure.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Selected stocks took another recovery ride with the rally in today's market and, while scattered leaders failed to get aboard, the excursion generally was termed successful.

The list as a whole displayed upward leanings in moderately active dealings. Gains ran to a point or more for favorites when the going was good and many new peaks for the year or longer were reached. Dealings slowed appreciably after midday and a little cashing in shaded best advances here and there near the close.

Hopefulness over the battle of the Solomons continued as a bullish factor but buying on this consideration again was restrained somewhat by Russian war clouds. Wall Street saw a constructive indicator in the lengthy Churchill-Stalin conference at Moscow and word that "definite decisions" had been reached tended to accentuate selling tendency.

Among stocks Santa Fe made a new high since 1938 and top marks for the present year were recorded for Atlantic Coast Line, Erie certificates, Lehigh Valley Coal pfd., National Dairy, United Airlines, Pan American Airways, Hiram Walker, Borden, U.S. Rubber common and preferred, and Willamette Industries.

Hiram Walker advanced 1½ to top activity in the Canadian section. International Nickel and Dome mines were unchanged.

Dorothy Dix:

Taxing All Bachelors
Would Really Be Cruel

Dear Miss Dix: I see that the question of taxing bachelors is being brought up again by the politicians, the argument being that the man who has no wife or children should be made to support those of men who cannot provide for their families. That seems to me a most unjust infringement on human liberty, for certainly if a man has any rights at all it is the right to marry or not, as he pleases. What do you think?

OLD BATCH.

Answer: I quite agree with you. I have always honored the men who felt that marrying and bringing children into the world was the greatest and most solemn responsibility a man could take upon himself, and who refrained from doing so when they knew they had no way of supporting a wife or of providing their little ones with food and clothes and shelter.

Certainly the man who has no means of livelihood adequate to support a family should be praised, and not blamed, for his courage and self-abnegation in not dragging a woman and children down into the depths of poverty.

The plan for taxing bachelors always has a lot of sour grapes in it, for it is based upon the assumption that the man without wife or children is better off than the one who is burdened with a family, and that he should be made to pay for the luxury of freedom. The idea is that he can come and go as he pleases without having to account to any wife for his movements, and, above all, that he has his own money and can spend it upon himself without seeing it go for food and clothes for wives and youngsters and for settling permanent waves and taking out adenoids and for skates and balls and all the other unending expenses of a family.

HUSBANDS' ATTITUDE IS SELFISH

So the married man, harassed by bills and wondering how he is to save enough out of his pay envelope for cigarettes and lunch money for the week, is all for putting a tax on bachelors. The mean, selfish things!

But, as a matter of fact, the bachelor is far from being the self-centred, carefree creature he is popularly supposed to be. Generally the reason he is not married is not because he did not love nor desire a home and children, but because he would not ask a woman to marry him when he could not have kept and cared for her, or because when he was at the marrying time of life he had old parents to take care of, or often nieces and nephews to support.

Nor does the bachelor have a monopoly of the money he earns. He is the victim of every grafting relative and friend and acquaintance he has; they think that not having any one else to support he might as well support them.

So, inasmuch as the bachelor loses much of the happiness of life in not having a wife and children, it does seem cruel to dumb brutes to take away from him his pocketbook also.

WHY NOT CALL HIS BLUFF?

Dear Miss Dix—My husband is a wonderful man in every way except one. He provides well for his family, spends his evenings at home, and is kind to children. But he has a temper, he does not even try to control and it makes our home a place of fear and dread, where we live in horror of doing or saying something that will bring on one of his outbursts of rage. At the least provocation he flies into a tantrum and says every dreadful and insulting thing he can think of, accuses us of every crime under the sun and then ends up by threatening to leave home. In spite of this, I still love him, but his temper is driving me into a highly nervous state. I feel that I can't face a lifetime like this. What can I do?

BEWILDERED WIFE.

Answer: The next time he gets into one of his senseless rages and threatens to leave home, why don't you call his bluff? Tell him that you've been thinking it over and that you have concluded that as he is so unhappy with you and the children, and you get upon his nerves so badly, you think it would be a wise thing for him to go some other place where he might find the conditions more to his liking and people who would be more congenial to him than his own family is.

Or you might get some doctor to warn him that his explosions are bad for his heart, or that they raise his blood pressure or something. He'd be as meek as a mouse if he thought he was hurting himself instead of hurting you, and he would turn so pleasant you wouldn't know him if there was the slightest chance of his being turned out of house and home if he didn't behave himself.

In good truth, however, I don't think there is the slightest chance of ever reforming a high-tempered man or woman, because they don't want to be reformed. In some sadistic way they get a kick out of making things unpleasant for other people. It thrills them with a sense of power to be able to insult people who are powerless to give them the beating they deserve. It gratifies their ego that their families walk in trembling terror of them. So why should they give up the enjoyable experience of blowing off the lid whenever they feel like it?

The woman with that kind of a husband has only two alternatives. One is to suffer and be strong, and the other is to put on her hat and leave.

DON'T MARRY FOR THRILLS

Dear Miss Dix—I've been going with a girl for almost two years. She is 27 and I am 30. She has all the qualifications of a good wife. She is intelligent, pretty, neat-looking, industrious, saving, sympathetic, a grand cook, a good companion and easy to get along with. I see her almost every night. The nights I don't meet her I don't know what to do with my time. I wouldn't give a darn to be with any other girl.

But I don't know whether I love her. She doesn't thrill me as did a girl whom I once went with. Yet I wouldn't have married that girl on a bet. Do you think that if I marry this girl who comes up to my ideal I'll still be thinking about the girl who fired my fancy?

BOB.

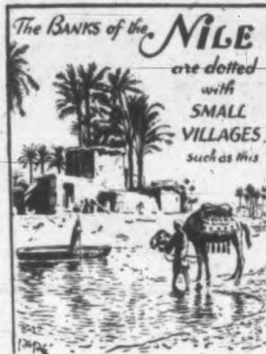

Answer: Not if you have enough sense to forget the glamour girl and take the goods the gods provide for you. Just remember that you're older now than you were when you had your adolescent love affair, and that you probably have very few thrills left in your system. Anyway, thrills are the poorest thing in the world to marry for, because they can't last in marriage. They perish inevitably in the wear and tear of every day life. But the good sterling qualities that attract you to this other girl, last. Any grown man who thinks he can love again the same way as he did as a boy betrays himself. We see the glory and the circling wings only once, and then it is through young eyes.

Fertile Part of Egypt
Has Area of Only
12,000 Square Miles

During the past two months, one of the ancient countries of the world has been in the headlines.

Egypt, the "Land of the Nile," has been attacked and a part of it has been invaded by Axis armies. When the attack came, the Egyptians did little to defend their own country. Instead they depended on British soldiers and aviators to save them from conquest.

Egypt is classed as a free country. It has its own king and the people make laws for themselves. Yet it does not have much military power. By treaty with Great Britain, the British have the duty of defending it.

That sounds good for Egypt, since the people are saved money and manpower. As for the British and their Allies, they feel it is most important to guard this country in northern Africa. If they had not done so, Axis armies would have swept eastward to the Suez Canal long ago.

Prisoners of the Japs

From the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

Little official information is as yet available about the conditions under which prisoners of Japan in all parts of Eastern Asia are now living, but from a variety of sources news is now trickling to the outside world. A comprehensive view of the situation is difficult as treatment varies.

In the first place the type of administration must be considered: mostly it is military, but even here the clan system of the Japanese army means that one individual commander or group may give a relatively easy rule while another will exhibit sadistic harshness. The people higher up direct strategy and little else.

Again, physical circumstances play their part. Greater freedom can be allowed at Shanghai, which was already encircled with barbed-wire and ideally set up to be a vast internment camp, than at Hongkong where it was necessary to round up "enemy aliens."

The governments of the United Nations are doing their utmost to get information and send relief. The Red Cross has a representative in Tokyo and one in Shanghai. Similarly, there is a species of diplomatic representation by the Swiss Minister in Tokyo and the Swiss Consul General in Shanghai. It has been possible to obtain the names of both military and civilian internees in Japan. Shanghai is not technically a point of internment and no list of names has been provided by the Japanese, but telegraphic inquiries have brought word of the personal welfare of individuals through both the Red Cross and the U.S. State Department. This is true of some other points in China and Japan. Some people, particularly missionaries, went to the Swiss or the Red Cross and volunteered information about themselves which has come through

REPRESENTATION DIFFICULT

It is still possible to send messages into Shanghai from certain neutral points, notably Buenos Aires, and some replies have come back. The most surprising means of obtaining information is the renewal of Chinese postal contact between occupied China and such points in Free China as Chungking or Chengtu. Letters in Chinese and English now pass with little interference, provided they concern themselves with personalities and general conditions. Hongkong is shut off from communication with New York or London, though there is communication with Shanghai and information has gone out indirectly. The Swiss do not represent United Nations nationals in Hongkong. The Red Cross has not been allowed to station a representative there, although the Japanese have now given permission for an International Red Cross representative at Shanghai to pay a visit to Hongkong, an act which is considered a hopeful sign from several viewpoints.

The Philippines are completely shut off. The Swiss do not represent American interests, nor has a Washington suggestion that the Swiss merely exercise "good offices" been favorably received by the Japanese. There is neither an international or a Japanese Red Cross representative there, although the Philippines Red Cross has functioned locally. Earlier in the war the Japanese radio sought to attract listeners to its propaganda broadcasts by giving out the names of prisoners, but this technique has been abandoned and names are now given in official lists to the Swiss for transmission. Little is known about persons in Thailand and other southern areas, which are considered points of internment. There are other less formal ways of getting information. Certain people have escaped, mostly from Shanghai and Hongkong. American officials evacuated from Bataan brought a good deal of information about internees in Manila, and an informal information bureau on this subject has been set up in the office of the Philippines High Commissioner, New Interior Building, Washington.

CHINESE LIVE FREELY

Most United Nations nationals in Japan are interned at various points, with no exceptional discomfort apparent anywhere. Lists of both civilian and military internees in Japan proper have been published. Their locations are known and the general conditions have been inspected and reported on by the Red Cross, under provisions of a Prisoners of War Convention to which Japan belatedly subscribed after war began.

By Japanese standards the treatment seems very good indeed, although Occidental ideas differ greatly from those of the Japanese on both food and shelter. It is interesting to note that although China and Japan had been in a state of undeclared war for years, Chinese were permitted to live freely in Kobe, Tokyo and other cities and to engage in business. This practice is probably continued as part of Japanese propaganda about good treatment for Asiatics. Life in Shanghai and other occupied Chinese cities was already hard in December for economic and other reasons, but it has probably not got much worse.

The Swiss have been allowed to begin regular sustenance allowance distributions to British and American people. There were no Shanghai atrocities. Missionaries and educators in Chinese cities were usually confined to their home but later given relative freedom. Life at such places must be hard and extremely dreary but still not too bad considering the possibilities.

BETTER AT HONGKONG

Hongkong seems to have had the worst experiences during the fighting and subsequently, of any large point about which much is known. There were initial excesses by the Japanese. Apparently authenticated stories tell of butcheries of Britons and Americans and outrages against foreign women, particularly nurses. But these things did not go on indefinitely.

Stanley Peninsula, looking toward the sea on the other side of the island from Victoria City, was made an internment point, and several hundred Britons and Americans were banded into the cluster of buildings there including, but not consisting exclusively, of a jail. A committee of Americans took the initiative in cleaning things up and dealing with the Japanese. Several people who escaped described a grim internment life with two scanty meals a day and other hard features, worse than any other known point.

However, a recent telegram from the Calcutta office of a British bank, basing its information on more recent escapes—thousands of Chinese have left Hongkong with Japanese aid—says that food and other conditions have been improved. Japanese consent to a Red Cross inspection would seem to bear this out. There was some disturbing and conspicuous Japanese "show-off" designed to humiliate the white and gain the admiring adherence of Hongkong Chinese and Indians, but this was short-lived because of the fairly early internment policy.

SUSTINENCE ALLOWANCES

Aside from some possible cruelty against Filipinos in the early days of the occupation, there was no authenticated reports or even strong rumors of executions or physical torture of Americans in the Philippines after the occupation. Most women were kept in their own homes. Many Americans have been interned at Santo Tomas University in Manila where they have good quarters and relatively ample supplies.

Subsistence allowances have been given for some time by the neutral Swiss on instructions from the American and British authorities, and with their respective treasuries standing back of what was doled out. The amounts have varied in accordance with what was believed to be the purchasing power of money at different points, although it appears that nothing very definite has been known as to what exchange would be allowed by the Japanese. The amounts for Americans as revealed last March was to be: For heads of households in China and Manchuria, a maximum of U.S. $65 monthly; in Japan, Korea, Thailand and Malaya $70, in Hongkong, $60. To these sums might be added 75 per cent per cent for each minor child. It is not possible to say definitely just what would be given, as the Swiss were instructed to keep within a top figure and amounts might vary from month to month according to need. Extra money was to be allowed for medical expense of similar emergency requirement. Persons interned and therefore presumably supplied with essentials were to be given only extra pocket money.

PRISONERS CHANGE

Overshadowing everything else at the moment is the prospect of exchange. For a long time the Japanese seemed indifferent on this point, but arrangements are now under way. Diplomats, consular officials and journalists have first priority. It is hoped that people at remote points or places where conditions are bad, such as Thailand and Hongkong, may be removed next. The aged, the very young, and the ailing are to be favored if possible, eventually everyone may be given the opportunity to leave.

Official announcements have been made in Ottawa and in other Allied capitals concerning transfers now under way of Allied nationals from Japan in exchange for Japanese nationals in Allied countries. Canadians and others are reported to have sailed in an Italian ship from Shanghai for Portuguese East Africa where they will transfer to a Swedish ship which is bringing Japanese to the transfer point. The first small group of Canadians is expected to arrive in this country in late August or early September.

Kelowna Man Leads Weekly Newspapers

SASKATOON (CP)—"It is our duty to interpret the will of the people to the government and the actions of the government to the people," Roy W. MacLean of the Kelowna, B.C., Courier, said in accepting the presidency of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association.

"The press is the one great and continuing agency which makes democracy possible," Mr. MacLean said. "Through it alone do the mass of individuals find out what their representatives are doing to them and for them. Through the press, the individual gets informed interpretation of the acts of his official representatives, definition of the direction in which those acts are leading."

Income Tax is Fair to All

In the fourth year of war, Canada will need almost four billion dollars. This is the equivalent of nearly $350 from every man, woman and child in the country.

Even with the highest income tax in history, 52% only of the money Canada needs will be raised by taxation. The rest will have to be borrowed by means of War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Victory Bonds.

Starting with the first pay period in September representing September earnings only, your employer is required by law to deduct your income tax from your wages or salary, and send it promptly to the Government. Everybody will pay his share as he goes along.

It's going to be tough . . . but not too tough! Here are some good features:

1. You will pay as you earn, so that you will not be faced with a large lump sum payment next year.
2. The National Defence Tax already deducted during the first 8 months of this year has been taken into account in the Table of Tax Deductions.
3. Though the income tax rates show a sharp increase over last year, a large portion of this increase is actually savings, to be paid back to you with interest after the war.
4. The money you are paying for life insurance premiums, annuities, principal repayments on your home, or into a pension fund may be deducted (up to a certain maximum) from the savings portion of your income tax. In many cases this may be sufficient to make payment of the savings portion of the tax unnecessary.

Unless you are single, without dependents, and not making payments of the types mentioned in paragraph 4 above, you should file Form TD-1 with your employer. Otherwise, you may not be allowed the credits to which you are entitled. DO NOT DELAY. File Form TD-1 with your employer at once so that you may get the full allowances from the start.
